BOMB BLAST KILLS 52 IN JERUSALEM

City Paralyzed as Arabs, Britons, Jews Patrol Streets Heavily Armed.

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Feb. 23—Jerusalem was virtually paralyzed today as bomb-carrying Arabs, British and Jews patrolled a city made darker and tense by yesterday's bombing of the Jewish section in which at least 52 persons died.

Rescue workers clawing at the wreckage of two hotels, three government houses and scores of homes along two blocks of Ben Yehuda street extricated nine more bodies today, boosting to 52 the number of dead. At least 88 persons have been dug from the debris. Haganah workers at the scene said there possibly were many more victims in the rubble.

Arab leaders said their commandos set off the two truckloads of explosives which caused the blast but Jews seemed convinced that the British were somehow responsible. Nine British soldiers were killed in retaliatory gun fighting after the explosion and three Jews lost their lives. The death toll for the day thus stood at 64.

Streets Are Mined

Streets were mined and a Britishguard stood duty at British security zone gates and at all administrative and military buildings.

Jews worked feverishly to strengthen their own barbed wire and cement block barricades.

All Jewish sections of the city were ordered out of bounds to the military. Jews warned even British police to stay out unless accompanied by Jewish police.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, extremist Jewish underground group, proclaimed "As from today all British personnel, military and police, entering Jewish sections will be subject to execution."

The already crippled civil administration was rendered virtually non-existent as the city was broken off into three zones of control.

Belief spread among Jews that the British had a hand in the explosion as the Jews claimed they did in the Palestine post blast on Feb. 1.

Jews Beat British

Jewish rescue workers refused to use British firefighting and debris clearing apparatus rushed to the scene. One of the first British policemen to arrive after the blast was beaten. British correspondents were threatened.

Later in the day five British soldiers were killed and six injured when a mine shattered their army truck.

Two RAF troopers were fatally shot near the gate of the British security zone. A chaplain was wounded and his army driver killed by gun-fire near the Jewish agency building.

Future of Palestine Enters Crucial Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The future of strife-torn Palestine enters a crucial week today with a series of top-level state department conferences.

The unprecedented question of whether American troops may be needed to help police the Holy Land and enforce the United Nations plan to split it between Jews and Arabs may be directly involved.

The first decision is to be put into final form at meetings here arranged for Secretary of State Marshall, his top policy advisers and Warren Austin, American delegate to the UN.

The second will be made by the UN security council which tomorrow takes up a commission recommendation that armed forces be provided to keep order in Palestine and make partition possible.

Austin will announce the American stand before the security council. But until he does Marshall has said this country's policy will be kept completely secret.

Magazine Subscription Firm Begins Operation

The Fulfillment Corporation, first organization in the United States to handle modern mechanized subscription fulfillment on a contract basis for magazine publishers, began operations here today.

Incorporated last fall, the concern was brought to Marion through efforts of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, H. E. Webster, secretary, announced. It occupies the four story building on West Center street formerly occupied by the Scherff Furniture store.

Subscription fulfillment for four magazines will be handled by the firm this year, all that the initial capacity of the new organization will permit. An initial 50 persons, all but a handful from Marion, began work today. As soon as they have been trained another 50 will be needed, it was said. During the peak season in September and October approximately 150 will be employed, and as operations expand, the local payroll is expected to approximate 600 in 1949.

Founders of the new firm are Wendell B. Ward of Chicago, formerly vice president in charge of subscription for Time Inc. and Edwin J. Kinter, New York, former supervisor of system service for Ernst and Ernst, a firm of management consultants.

Moves To Marion

Mr. Ward is president of the new corporation and Mr. Kinter vice president and treasurer. Walter G. Henry, of New York is secretary. Mr. Ward has already moved to Marion and Mr. Kinter is in the process of obtaining a home here.

The Fulfillment Corporation was born out of the experiences Mr. Ward and Mr. Kinter had in solving the subscription fulfillment problem for Time Inc. with a bulk subscription total of 5,000,000.

Mr. Ward had been with Time Inc. 12 years in various business and advertisement departments and as personnel manager before going to the Chicago office to help straighten out the company's fulfillment troubles. Taking over as department manager, he was joined by Mr. Kinter, hired by Time Inc. as a management consultant to help with the task.

Turn To Machines

After about four years work, they solved the problem by mechanizing the entire subscription end of the business. Method they used was to install punch card equipment which resulted in handling approximately five million subscriptions on 200 business machines more efficiently than 1,800,000 subscriptions had been handled four years before by the manual method. Time Inc. called the changeover instituted by the two entrepreneurs "some of the most interesting developments in the world of publishing."

Tide, the news magazine of advertising, marketing and public relations, pointed to the Fulfillment Corp. as "the first U. S. organization to handle modern mechanized subscription fulfillment on a contract basis for publishers who traditionally have handled the immensely complicated job themselves. Most methods publishers use today are strictly horse and buggy, compared to other clerical operations in large businesses. Consequently, the Fulfillment Corp. may well revolutionize a long neglected stepchild of the publishing business."

Volume To Be High

Volume of business the Fulfillment Corp. is anticipating is reflected in an estimated 6,000,000 mail volume this year which Mr. Ward expects to rise to 20,000,000 within the next three years as operations expand.

Due to the time necessary to train personnel and get the business operating smoothly, contracts for the first year are but 25 per cent of the business slated to be handled by the firm, Mr. Kinter explained.

Young Trial Opens Tuesday

To Face First Degree Murder Charge in Slaying of Mrs. Zora Gerbes.

Marion county's second murder trial in three months will open tomorrow morning with County Prosecutor James E. Reed prepared to ask the death penalty for Edwin D. Young, 39, accused of slaying Mrs. Zora Gerbes, 25, last July 11.

Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith Saturday called for an additional 50 prospective jurors to bolster the original venire of 75 names. Approximately 25 have been excused from jury duty from the original list.

A motion for a change of venue hinges on whether or not a jury is seated without difficulty. Defense Counsel Paul D. Michel filed the motion shortly after Young was arraigned. At his request, Judge Smith allowed the defense permission to be heard on the motion if and when it appears difficulty in seating a jury is experienced. Michel alleged a fair and impartial trial can not be had in Marion county.

Mother of Three

Mrs. Gerbes, Marion mother of three small children was found strangled by a clothesline in St. Paul's Lutheran church drive, near Marion, by two farm youths returning home from Marion after midnight. They later identified the man they saw with the woman as Young. The slayer fled however when the boys went to notify officials. Authorities began a nation-wide hunt for Young as a suspect in the killing.

Eluding capture Young made good his escape to Colorado where local officials lost his trail. Little hope was held for an early capture. Officials hoped that eventually he would slip and be caught. He did.

On Jan. 4 Young was arrested in Holly, Colo., on a bad check charge. He was using an alias at

4 Killed, 2 Injured In Head-on Auto Crash

By The Associated Press

FREMONT, O., Feb. 25—Four persons were John Swint, 55; his wife, 54; Jonn Cronin, 45, and his wife, Anna, 43, all of Fremont. Hospitalized with multiple lacerations and other injuries were Eric Davisson, 19, of Fremont, and Miss Beverly Brown, 18, of Green Creek township.

State highway patrolmen said the four who died were riding in an auto driven by Swint. Davisson was the driver of the second car involved in the accident.

TRUMAN ASKS STIFFER RENT CONTROL LAW

Couples Plea with Long-Range Housing Program in Message to Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—President Truman today urged a 14-month stronger rent control law, along with extension of financial aid to home building.

In a special message to congress, Mr. Truman asked this emergency action be coupled with a long range housing program to produce 1,000,000 dwellings a year for the next decade.

"We must adopt them together so that they may work together," the President's message said. "We must make orderly progress, not a staggering, uncertain series of starts and halts."

Rent control expires February 29. Republican leaders have agreed to push through a 30-day extension of the present law this week. This will give time for study of a bill pending in the senate for a 14-month extension of ceilings to April 30, 1949, on a modified basis.

More Housing at Lower Cost

Mr. Truman asked for "more housing at lower cost, both in the immediate future and for the long run."

He set before congress this five-point objective:

►"To continue and strengthen rent control.

►"To stimulate a higher volume of home building on a sustained basis with special emphasis on rental housing, with proper safeguards against possible inflationary effects.

►"To reduce building costs.

►"To assist communities in providing low-rent housing for families in the lowest-income groups.

►"To aid cities in rebuilding and modernizing run-down areas."

Less than 14 per cent of the 840,000 new homes built in 1947 were rental units, the President said, and "almost no housing at all was built for low-income families."

"Tenants in many parts of the country have been receiving notices from landlords that their rents will be substantially raised if rent control is allowed to expire on Feb. 29," he reported.

The new law, he said, should protect the 1,680,000 tenants who have agreed to 15 per cent increases under the present law.

"These families have no protection beyond Dec. 31, 1948," if the law expires, Mr. Truman pointed out.

A new rent control law should "provide adequate authority to enable the government to enforce the law, and approximations should be sufficient for an adequate enforcement staff," the President said.

In extending emergency financial help, Mr. Truman said, congress should prolong the liberal loan insurance provisions of title 6 of the national housing act for one year beyond the March 31 deadline. An increase of $2,000,000,000 of insurance authorization should be granted, half of it earmarked for rental homes only, he said.

Market for Loans

The government also must continue a secondary market for home mortgage loans, with "adequate safeguards against inflationary effects," Mr. Truman advised.

Federal purchase of mortgages should be limited to localities where the drying-up of credit is endangering home building, and when it will not mean higher costs or "unsound credit standards," the President said.

Federal power to buy up home mortgages now rests in a subsidiary of the reconstruction finance agency. RFC's authority expires June 30. Mr. Truman proposed mortgage-buying power be transferred to the overall housing office—the Housing and Home Finance Agency headed by Raymond Foley. HFA, he said, would handle both FHA loans and those guaranteed by the veterans administration.

As a third financial aid Mr. Truman renewed his plea that the government insure a return on investment for companies which launch big-scale rental projects. The long-pending Taft-Wagner-Ellender housing bill would provide such "yield insurance."

Power to ration housing materials still is needed, Mr. Truman said. He expressed doubt of success of a voluntary anti-inflation law recently passed. Under this law, industries can work together to distribute scarce supplies to hold down prices.

OHIO PEN GETS NEW WARDEN

Ralph Alvis Replaces Ousted Frank D. Henderson After Penitentiary Probe.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—Red-headed Ralph Alvis was given "a free hand" to run Ohio penitentiary today.

State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood told the former highway patrolman to do anything he thought should be done to straighten out anything he found wrong in the 114-year-old prison.

Alvis was named acting Warden after Sherwood demanded and received the verbal resignation of Frank D. Henderson, former adjutant general who had held the post since 1939.

Sherwood still refused to specify any reason for removing Henderson except "failing health." Henderson called himself "one of the healthiest men in Ohio." Sherwood planned to go to the penitentiary later today to get Henderson's written resignation.

Alvis, who has been assistant superintendent at London prison farm, told a news conference he was "going to correct situations that I think need correcting as they come to my attention." Sherwood added that he and Alvis would "talk over what we think needs going into."

Sherwood demanded Henderson's resignation Saturday following an investigation of reported administrative breakdowns at the grey-walled, mid-town prison. Henderson is a former resident of Marysville.

In an official announcement, Sherwood said:

"Decision of Warden Henderson to submit his resignation was prompted by failing health."

Henderson declined comment at the time but last night the 66-year-old warden told a reporter:

Healthiest in Ohio

"I'm one of the healthiest men in Ohio. I'm not fit to play football as I did 40 years ago, but my health is good."

This was Henderson's first comment on his ouster from the job he had held since 1939.

"When I took the job," he said, "I told them Gov. John W. Bricker and Charlie Sherwood that whenever the time came that they did not think I was the right man for the job, all they had to do was come over and tell me."

"That's exactly what I did Saturday," Sherwood said last night. "I don't think Warden Henderson

Blood Center Service Becomes Postwar Red Cross Activity

Establishment of blood centers is a postwar service of the American Red Cross. The first unit of the vast network of regional blood centers to be operated by the organization in cooperation with physicians and hospitals was opened in Rochester, N. Y. early this year. The center serves 27 hospitals in 11 surrounding counties and involves 17 Red Cross chapters.

Establishment of blood centers is financed through contributions made in the annual Red Cross fund campaign which will get under way March 1. The national goal is $75,000,000, of which $25,985 is Marion county's quota.

At the present time the Marion City hospital is receiving a quota of the surplus blood plasma which was left in the hands of the military when the war terminated, local Red Cross officials state. As the centers are established throughout the country the hospital will be serviced through a unit to be set up at Columbus.

About two million surplus pints of blood donated by citizens during the war remained at the time hostilities ended, and at that time it was decided that since this plasma had been donated by the people it should be returned to them. Plans were made to make the plasma available to all recognized physicians and surgeons and to all acceptable hospitals for the use of any patient without charge. The Ohio state board of health was made responsible in Ohio for distribution of this surplus plasma to hospitals in Ohio. Replacements are made from time to time and as long as there is a supply, any citizen in need of plasma may request free use from his physician or hospital.

The program is long range in its aspects and will require from three to five years to reach full operation. At that time an estimated 3,700,000 pints of whole blood annually will be needed to meet requirements for medical treatment and research.

Functions of Centers

Blood centers will collect, process and distribute whole blood and, in time, certain blood derivatives to civilian, military, naval, and veterans hospitals and to physicians for use of all patients requiring blood therapy.

The Red Cross will assume the entire cost of collecting, processing and distributing the blood with the only cost to the recipient being the charge normally made by hospitals and physicians for its administration.

TRUMAN CONCLUDES VIRGIN ISLANDS TOUR

By The Associated Press

CHRISTIANSTED, ST. CROIX, VIRGIN ISLANDS, Feb. 23—President Truman declared today renewal by Congress of the Charter of the Virgin Islands Company is essential to stabilization of the economy of these islands.

He closed his good will visit to these Caribbean possessions with a tour of St. Croix, largest of the Virgin Islands, and an official luncheon, attended by Governor William H. Hastie and other local officials.

The President intends to leave later in the day, aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg, for the naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba. He is due there Wednesday. From Guantanamo he will fly to Key West, Fla., for a nine-day vacation.

Saying he had come here to "See for myself what this part of our American family is doing to meet our common problems," the President said in his prepared address:

"Here, I know, our American way of working together toward peace and prosperity will bring results we can all enjoy. Governor Hastie and the Federal Agencies are working together both here and in Washington to improve the use of St. Croix's many assets, and to develop new ones."

6 PERSONS DIE IN BOSTON HOME FIRE

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23—Six persons in one family—four of them children—perished early today when flames swept their 16 room house on fashionable Brewster street.

Police identified the dead as: H. Alan Gregg, 40, a Harvard graduate of 1925; his wife, Ann, and their four children—Susan, 9; H. Alan, Jr., 8; Peter, 3; and Thomas, 10 months old.

The only one to escape as flames raced through the rambling three story wooden house was the family maid, Edna Roper, 28. She was injured critically, firemen said, when she apparently toppled through a second story window in trying to open it.

At least a dozen firemen and the department's fire chaplain—the Rev. Thomas Tierney—were overcome attempting to rescue the trapped family.

39 CUSTOMERS, 4 OPERATORS FACE CHARGES

Chief Marks Leads 18 Officers in Roundup of S. Main Street Place.

Forty-three arrests followed a surprise raid at 3:15 p. m. Saturday by Police Chief William E. Marks and 17 Marion policemen on the "Kentucky Club", located on the second floor at 138½ South Main street.

Thirty-nine of those arrested in the raid were patrons of the place, Chief Marks said. The chief said the club was operating a race "book". Three police cruisers made a total of nine trips from the club headquarters to book those arrested. All the patrons were released after posting $25 bond for appearance in municipal court Tuesday morning.

John Emerson Midlam, 31, of 212 Orchard street was arrested as operator of the club, described by Chief Marks as a large scale horse racing "bookie joint". Harold Leroy Bratton, 44, of 300½ South Main street, Edward Eby, 33, of 878 North State street, and Oscar Carl Jenner, 50, of 158½ North Main street were arrested as employes of the places. All were charged in municipal court with being custodians of gambling devices. Midlam was released on $200 bond while Eby, Bratton, and Jenner's bonds were set at $50. The customers were charged with disorderly conduct.

Three cruisers of policemen left headquarters shortly after 3 p. m. The first car carrying Capt. E. C. Mackan and five men drove to the rear of the place. The second car carrying Capt. L. E. Kirts and five patrolmen drove to the front of the place on South Main. Chief Marks and a five-man squad followed in the third car to surround the place.

Complete Surprise

The raid itself was a quiet orderly affair. The surprise of the operators and patrons was so complete when Capt. Mackan and his men walked in the unlocked back door that no attempt was made to resist. Capt. Kirts and his squad entered the front door only seconds after Mackin's entry from the rear. Before the bewildered group of patrons could realize a raid was in progress Chief Marks entered and ordered the removal of all patrons and moveable equipment to headquarters. Business people and shoppers in the neighborhood knew nothing of the raid until it was all over, so fast was the action of the chief and his squads.

After the removal of the prisoners and equipment the club was padlocked by the chief, to prevent removal of a public address system, "marker boards" and ticket machines which bring progress and results of races here from the tracks by wire.

Out of Town Addresses

When booked by police, many of the patrons gave out of town addresses, although the majority of those arrested were believed to be from Marion. Addresses given by the patrons included Bucyrus, Columbus, Nevada, Cincinnati, Delaware, Marysville, Mt. Gilead, Warren, Richwood, and Prospect.

No liquor or firearms were found either on the patrons or in the place, the chief said. All of the patrons of the place were men.

Hearings for all 43 are set for 10 a. m. Tuesday before Judge W. Dexter Hazen in municipal court.

The hearings were set forward until tomorrow because of the George Washington birthday holiday today. Saturday's raid was the fifth police have staged at the Kentucky club, Chief Marks said.

U. S., BRITAIN, FRANCE BEGIN EUROPE PARLEY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 23—The United States, Great Britain and France begin a conference today on western Germany's future. It is the first formal diplomatic acknowledgement that the world has divided into two parts.

For the first time, Russia is absent from official talks on the future of the countries—Germany, Italy and Japan—that gambled their military powers upon world conquest and lost. In her empty chair is piled a batch of reasons:

(1) Inability of the Big Four to get together on a peace treaty for Germany at their foreign ministers' council meeting which ended here in December.

(2) U. S. determination to give western Germany a big part in the Marshall plan for European economic recovery.

(3) A plain spoken Soviet accusation that the Marshal Plan is part of an "imperialistic" American plan to "enslave Europe."

(4) Formation of the Communist International information bureau (Cominform)—eastern European spokesman for Communist-dominated countries—to coordinate an attack upon western democracies.

TRAINING BILLS IN CONGRESS

Ohio Solons Study Measure; Smith of Marion Opposes Proposed Plan.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Ohio congressmen are doing a lot of thinking about universal military training.

Legislation to require a year of such training for youths after they reach 18 or graduate from high school is now bottled up in the house rules committee.

It may or may not reach the floor for action. There's a lot of steam and pressure being worked up by both sides, however.

Ohio congressmen are careful about commenting on the highly controversial proposal, which is strongly backed by the administration and some veterans groups and opposed by certain church and educational organizations.

Only two of 12 Buckeye congressmen, who were available and willing to discuss the matter say they are flatly opposed to the program.

Rep. Frederick C. Smith of Marion, (R) describes the bill as a "conscription" and "regimentation" measure and asserts it ultimately would mean conscripting women.

Bender Also Opposes

Rep. Bender (R) says his feeling now is "definitely against" the UMT bill proposed.

Others qualify their answers with suggestions like this:

▶Voluntary methods should be given a fair trial.

▶A super air force should be our first goal.

▶There is no need of large infantry reserves if, as General Eisenhower says, the next war will be decided within 60 days.

▶They favor the "training" part of the program but oppose emphasis on military discipline and the like.

▶Some say the plan smacks of conscription, which they do not like.

Taft Is Senate Foe

Senator Taft is one of the outspoken opponents to UMT in the senate. Senator Bricker says he is against the program unless the armed forces can show it is absolutely necessary for security—and he doesn't think that has been demonstrated as yet.

Rep. Crosser, Cleveland Democrat with an Ohio record of 32 years in congress, is one of a group withholding judgment.

Stand Cost Election

Crosser was knocked out of congress for two terms after the first war because of his firm stand against conscription then.

He says he "wants to see what we're going to vote on before talking about it."

Rep. Kirwan, Youngstown Democrat, comments on UMT that he has been "strong for preparedness in the past and voted for every preparedness measure."

He repeats his boast that "I was the only one from Ohio to vote to fortify Guam before the last war; one of two that voted for the draft and one of two that voted to extend the draft. No other present member from Ohio who was here then voted for those measures.

"I don't think UMT will come up, but if it does those same persons would be against it."

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATION

CHRIST in You, ✝ THE HOPE of Glory

GLORY IN THE CROSS

GAL. 6:14 "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto, and I unto the world."

ONE wonders that Paul should glory in the cross of Christ. In his age the cross was a symbol of all that was odious and contemptible and only the vilest malefactors were punished upon it. It was upon this cross that the Christ he loved so well was cruelly crucified. What was it then that made him glory in the cross?

Paul glorified in the cross because of what it had done for him. He found life and liberty in the cross but only death and bondage in the law. The power of sin in his flesh ruled over his will. That which he desired to do he did not and that which he desired not to do he did. Finally, in desperation he cries, "O wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" Triumphantly he replies, "I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord."

We too can glory in this cross if we know the Christ that Paul knew.

U.S.W.V. Auxiliary Meets in Legion Dugout

A meeting of Betsy Ross Auxiliary to Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, was held Friday afternoon in the Legion Dugout with Mrs. Aletha Schultz, newly elected president, presiding. Following the meeting of the Camp in the evening, the auxiliary joined the men for a joint social hour.

The auxiliary voted a contribution to the campaign fund of the Marion County chapter of the American Red Cross. Devotions were conducted by the chaplain, Mrs. Hattie Richards. Mrs. Pauline Platz was installed as assistant guard by Mrs. Emma Bondley, past department president. Plans were made to send toys for the "emergency shelf" at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home at Xenia, and plans were completed for a birthday party in honor of those whose birthdays are in January, February and March to be held at the next meeting, March 19. A potluck dinner will be held at noon.

Mrs. Mercedes Byrnes, historian, read an article on the "Sinking of the Battleship Maine," in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the war with Spain. A contest prize during the social hour went to Mrs. Mabel Poulin, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Byrnes, Mrs. Bondley, Mrs. Fannie Call and Mrs. Beth Monk.

At the Camp meeting, a memorial service was conducted for A. W. Newby, who died this week. A committee, composed of Zed Gunder, John Monk, R. M. Miller and Morris Britt, was appointed to meet with the general Memorial Day committee of the city. Donations were voted to the Red Cross and to the March of Dimes. Plans were discussed for a triple celebration to be held in April. Special entertainment will be presented and guest speakers will be present when the camp celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the war with Spain, when Muster Day services are held and when it observes Flag Day.

Methodist Educator Killed in Accident

By The Associated Press

BEMUS POINT, N. Y., Feb. 23—Dr. Lucius H. Bugbee, former editor of Church School Publications of the Methodist church, was injured fatally yesterday when struck by a truck. He was 73.

He was walking to church when hit, Chautauqua county Coroner Samuel T. Bowers said. A certificate of accidental death was issued.

Dr. Bugbee became editor of Church School Publications in 1930. He was named executive secretary of the church's editorial division, board of education, in 1940. His headquarters were in Nashville, Tenn., until his retirement two years ago.

Prof. Kays has just returned from speaking engagements at the National Aberdeen Angus show and sale in Chicago and the Southwestern stock show at Fort Worth, Tex.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

"THE world doesn't have any future," said the young man, "because there isn't any common sense left in the world."

This is a depressing view Tom takes after a hard day at the office. And this had been a hard day.

Frances and I had come over to baby-sit for him and his wife, so they could take in a movie. While his wife was dressing, Tom talked about the sad plight of humanity.

"There isn't anything you can really look forward to," he said. "Nothing is stable anymore and nothing's sure."

Hal Boyle

Tom is like millions of other men his age who came back from the war with a premature armor of pessimism. It is a kind of "oh-to-hell-with-it-anyway" philosophy that was helpful in the recent years when the penalty and privilege of being young was to face death and danger in foreign lands.

But this surface cynicism seems strangely unnatural now in those days of semi-peace, particularly in young married men with their real careers just beginning.

"I'm not complaining," Tom said. "I've got a good job and make a fair living. But what will it all lead to?"

I DIDN'T ANSWER. I have learned that when ex-soldiers talk that way they are only trying to talk back into themselves something they lost on the battlefields—a sense of security, a feeling that things will be well. And that takes time.

"What use is there now in saving money?" Tom went on. "Maybe it was a good thing for my father or my grandfather. But why should I? Nobody learned anything from this war. There'll be another war.

His wife came out just in time to hear his last remark.

"Okay, sourpuss," she said. "There'll be another war. So what?"

"So money won't be any good—nothing'll be any good," said Tom. "We'll all be atomized."

"Well, we might as well eat one last movie first," said his wife cheerfully. As Tom got up to put on his coat, still grumbling of "I'll say there's no future," their baby woke up in the next room and began to cry.

"Oh, darn!" said his wife. "It's better give him a bottle before we leave.

While it was warming, Tom went in and brought out the baby. He yawned and rubbed his eyes, gave us all a startled look and then began crowing happily. That baby is crazy about company.

TOM HELD HIM while the wife fed him. Then the baby began to kick vigorously.

"I think he wants to walk already," said Tom.

"At six months, silly?" laughed his wife.

"Well, he does. Look."

He held the baby close to the floor. Electric with pleasure, the baby padded at the rug with bent feet.

"Look, look!" cried Tom. "He's practically walking at six months."

"Don't you dare put any weight on his legs, Tom!"

"I'm not, am I?"

Then the young man who didn't believe in the future play-walked the baby to its mother. She walked him back again. They both held him and laughed.

"Oh, Tom," she said, "it's getting late. Let's don't go out."

"Okay."

So we all stayed home and let the baby entertain us. And nobody said another word about war.

Sweeping the nation like wildfire: "This time it's Hudson" the car you step down into!
GET in on the excitement. See a new kind of motor car—only five feet from ground to top, but with more inside head room and roomier seats than in any other mass-produced car built today!
Hudson is the only American-built car you step down into when entering, not up on—yet it maintains road clearance.
Hudson's new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame* is the only motor-car construction that completely encircles you, even outside the rear wheels, with a rugged, box-steel foundation frame.
You ride within this frame—cradled between axles—not on top of the frame as in other cars. And as you ride, Hudson's combination of unique construction and comfort features gives you a sensation of snug safety and serene, smooth going unlike anything you've known before!
Treat yourself to the thrill of riding behind Hudson's all-new Super-Six engine—the most powerful six built today—or the better-than-ever Super-Eight. Find out about automatic gear shifting in forward speeds as provided by Hudson's exclusive "Drive-Master" transmission.

ONG GOES AFTER 16 LIAISON PILOTS

By The Associated Press

...COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—...National Guard is in the ... for 16 liaison pilots.

... Gen. Chester W. Goble ... medical rating boards ... ready to conduct test ... and examine candidates ... today.

... special applicants, Goble ... yesterday, will be commissioned in grades from first lieutenant to lieutenant colonel.

Those accepted also will be eligible for as much as 100 hours flying time a year in the Guard's new L-17 and L-16 planes and will receive the same flight and base pay for acuve duty as regular Army liaison pilots, Goble added.

Ex-Army liaison fliers, the adjutant general continued, can be commissioned in the Guard merely by having their rating cards revalidated and meeting federal recognition requirements.

The Ohio National Guard recently received 14 new planes, including four-seater Avions and two-place Aeroncas. They are located in Columbus, Toledo, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Goble said schools will be established in those cities to provide occupational training for the new liaison pilots.

"National Guard liaison aircraft will be made available to pilots assigned to ground units of the organized reserve in order to insure their fullest utilization," Goble continued.

U. S. fire losses in 1946 totaled $4.01 per capita.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I STOLE a side glance from beneath my lowered eyelashes at Mr. "K." to see how he was taking the adroit slur in Georges' voice. But when I saw the amused smile playing around his lips with no trace of resentment in it, I realized anew that his attitude toward Georges was one of indifferent amusement. It did not matter one whit to him what Georges thought of him.

But one thing was very obvious to me. Without delay, I must begin the process of "tailoring Georges down to size," as Mary put it.

"I am sorry, Georges," I said trying to put a passable imitation of regret into my voice," but it would be impossible for me to talk to you privately in this car. The ears of the men are too keen. If we raised our voices, as we might very easily do if the subject of your conversation is what I think it is, they would hear us, and that would be unthinkable. As soon as we get to the farmhouse, I shall be gled to talk to you alone. But not now."

I turned to Mr. "K", for I knew it was kinder not to look at Georges face, plainly reflecting his defiated ego.

"Please do not think I am unmindful of my father's injunction not to delay our return," I told him. "But I will have ample time for my interview while Katie puts the last touches to the supper she is preparing for us."

"Yum-yum!" The FBI man voiced the school-boy expression in tones the men in the front could not hear. But it was no less fervent for his caution.

"One of Katie's dinners!" he went on. "I would walk more than one mile to taste one again."

He turned to Georges, patently willing to ignore the royal playboy's color, and include him in the conversation.

"You've enjoyed Katie's dinners I am sure," he said.

"Not recently," Georges rejoined a bit stiffly. "But often, in the never-to-be-forgotten time when I first saw this country—and the Grahams."

His pause before our name made me wonder if he had thought of another name, that of Mary, before he spoke I knew that even his devilish disregard of ordinary amenities would not have permitted him to utter her name aloud.

"I agree with you, though, about Katie's dinners," he went on. "If they're anything like what they were years ago, they're indeed worth many miles of trudging."

"You won't have to trudge more than the distance across the room," I told him, laughing, and Mr. "K." put a quick question.

"Katie expects you then?" he asked, and I knew that his trained mind was racing over the possibilities that an overheard message to my faithful housekeeper might be dangerous.

"Yes," I told him smiling, "but there is no need to worry about my message to her."

"Oh, I'm not. Surely you don't think I would have the temerity —" I had the satisfaction of seeing the imperturbable Mr. "K." a bit discomfited.

"It isn't temerity," I told him. "It's your job, and I insist upon your hearing how the message was sent to her."

I ignored the further protest he was beginning to voice, and hurried on.

"Long ago," I said, "Katie and I worked out a primitive code by which certain directions as to the care of the farmhouse, the animals, and the foodstuffs in the house, meant certain meals to be prepared at certain times. So, when I telephoned Charlie Kent —you surely remember our useful and competent taxi driver—"

"Oh, yes indeed," he said. "Clever chap."

"That describes him," I said, "and when I phoned him that I could not get the farmhouse, but that I wished Katie to know that I wished the food for the chickens changed, and that she was to get four bags of a certain kind of food, and that I wished her to begin feeding them the new ration tomorrow morning, she will understand that I wish an old-fashioned stewed chicken dinner, counting four chickens for eight people."

"Ah-h!" Mr. "K." said. "We three, Joe, Gus and the two guards are seven. That means a half chicken apiece."

His gratification was genuine. I knew for while he eats in many exotic places appealing to the gourmet, his opportunities for eating old-fashioned home dinners such as Katie serves are few.

"It may mean more than that," I told him. There will be an extra half, and I simply can't face more than a quarter at most."

"I shall eat myself into torpidity," he said, and his sentence was punctuated by a blast of sound, and the swerving of the big car which Joe evidently was finding exceedingly hard to control.

Legion Club 162 Marks First Anniversary

Approximately 200 veterans and their wives attended a celebration Saturday night at the American Legion Club 162 of Bird-McGinnis Post at 123 East Center street which marked the first anniversary of the founding of the club.

Musical entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Helen Burklew and games of various kinds were provided.

The Club has been used during the last year to an advantage not only by members of the post but by other veterans' groups for committee meetings and other gatherings.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the social gathering was composed of Chester Morris, Col. E. H. Copeland, J. Albert Dripps, Howard Cross, Richard Burklew, John Moore and Newton Cunningham.

Favors New Farm Parity Price Formula

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Senator Bushfield (R-SD) said today the proposed new farm parity price formula would go far toward making agricultural income stable.

In a statement, he referred to suggested revision of the parity system as recently outlined by the senate agriculture committee.

Under present law, parity is a price plane chosen to give farmers buying power roughly equal to that they had in the favorable 1909-14 period.

The federal government is required to support the prices of many basic farm commodities at 90 per cent of parity.

EMMA BERGER CLASS MEETS

Speakers at a meeting of the Emma Berger class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Thursday night were Adjutant Mary Nistewicz of the Salvation Army, and Miss Eva Clausen who has been holding evangelistic services at First Evangelical United Brethren church. Miss Celeste Richardson, music evangelist with Miss Clausen, sang. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. C. Z. Zachman at 722 South Prospect street. A donation of $5 was voted for Red Cross. "Sympathetic Kindly Personal Service . . . ."

Several years ago a survey was made among 50,000 families in various parts of the country to learn what they would prefer in funeral service. By far the greatest desire was "Sympathetic, Kindly personal service."

Hughes Funeral Service adopted that as a policy from the day our own establishment was opened—and long before this survey was made. We have been far more interested in the friendly way our service was received by Marion families, but we are glad to have this nation-wide endorsement.

It costs no more to have this kind of service, and that is something to remember when funeral service is required.

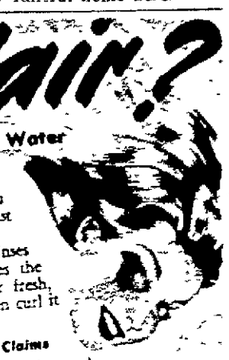
Gray Hair?

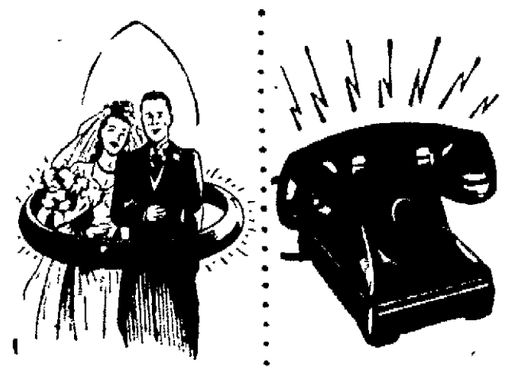
RE-COLOR it with Canute Water



A few applications of this delightful beauty aid will re-color your gray hair completely—similar to its former natural shade. In one day if you wish—gradually if you prefer. Then shampoo just once a month to KEEP it young looking. Do not confuse Canute Water with tints or rinses that wash off. Shampooing actually improves the rich, warm new color and leaves your hair fresh, clean and natural to the touch. You may even curl it or get a permanent, if you wish.

No Other Product Can Make All These Claims

REALLY SAFE! Skin test NOT needed. Colorless and crystal-clear. Proved harmless at one of America's Greatest Universities. Thirty years without injury to a single user. Is it any wonder that leading dealers in most of America's largest cities sell more Canute Water than all other hair colorings combined! At drug stores everywhere.



America's Two Most Popular Rings

The wedding ring and telephone ring really have a lot in common. Since V-J day, a record number of young Americans have been married—and since then we have installed a record number of telephones, many of them for newlyweds. We are glad that people think of a telephone automatically when they think of setting up their home. We'll do everything possible to speedily provide service for all who want it.

The new issue for 1948-49 contains 7,305,472 words (10 times as many as the Bible), 2,978 pages and 41,194 listings.

Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines Co., New York, again has the longest sketch—201 lines. It only ran 155 lines in the last issue. Runner-up is the late Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, whose sketch was increased three times to a total of 138 lines before his death.

Watson's sketch costs the Who's Who publishers $50 to print at current publishing costs. The biographies of President Truman and Albert Einstein cost only $5 each to print.

One line has been inserted in General Eisenhower's previous 42-line sketch. It reads "President of Columbia University."

The oldest and youngest listees were not displaced. They are Calvin Francis Adams, West Roxbury, Mass., engineer, who will be 97 in July and Margaret O'Brien, screen star who was 11 on Jan. 15.

An analysis of listings showed that education helps a person's chances of being listed and that graduates of small colleges have a four times better chance than graduates of big ones. Connecticut had the most listings per 100,000 population—76.3, followed in order by Nevada, New York and Massachusetts.

Among other first time listings are Dorothy Lamour; Hildegarde; opera singer Dorothy Kirsten; Minerva Pious, the Mrs. Nussbaum of Fred Allen's radio show; James W. Glenn, president of the Reynolds Tobacco Co., and Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia.

Global Scene

By DeWitt Mackenzie

TEN years ago a brilliant young British statesman, who had the world at his feet, challenged fate by resigning a great position of foreign secretary as a protest against his prime minister's policy of appeasing the dictators.

We are, of course, speaking of Anthony Eden, then only forty and the youngest man in more than four score years to hold this exalted post. Since there still are folk who cling to appeasement—either because they are muddled or mischievous—we may profit by taking a look at Eden's case.

The aristocratic young Briton was riding the crest of international popularity at that time. He was gifted with a genius that early had showed itself at Eton and Oxford. He joined the colors at 17 in the first World War; at 19 he was the youngest adjutant in the British army; at 20 he was a brigade major.

MACKENZIE

Eden was only 26 when he was elected to parliament—a political prodigy. None other than Winston Churchill declared he was "the only fresh figure of first magnitude arising out of the generation which was ravaged by the (first) great war."

As foreign secretary, Eden's fame circled the globe. Sartorial experts called him "the best dressed politician in the world." The Eden black homburg was known wherever hats were worn. He was pretty much lord of all he surveyed.

But the statesman was unhappy. He was trying to serve two masters—his conscience and a prime minister who persisted in trying to curb the aggression of Hitler and Mussolini with soft words.

TO BE SURE, Eden had carried the battle single-handed into the camps of both dictators. Even before he was foreign secretary, and was minister for League of Nations Affairs, he had lectured the pompous duce in Rome for the invasion of Ethiopia and was mainly responsible for pursuading the league to impose sanctions on Italy. He had shown his disdain of Hitler by openly yawning as the Nazi leader was indulging in a bombastic outburst about his love of peace during a fruitless disarmament discussion in Berlin.

Both dictators had a bitter hatred of Eden and made him the object of constant attacks. It wasn't strange, therefore, that the foreign secretary finally should reach a point where he either had to break with his chief or abandon the dictates of conscience. Naturally there was only one answer to that, and on February 20, '38, he created a world sensation by resigning.

SO ANTHONY EDEN carried on as a plain member of parliament—but he was a bigger personality in the eyes of the world than ever before. The war clouds consumed to gather as Chamberlain pursued his disastrous appeasement. Not long before Hitler invaded Poland (whose independence Britain had guaranteed to defend) Eden said:

"Not only to be tough but to look tough, to talk tough and to act tough is the best contribution we as a people can make to peace today."

After war began Chamberlain called on Eden to serve as dominions secretary. Then when Churchill became prime minister he made Eden war secretary and later foreign secretary again, as well as leader of the house of commons.

Thus Eden became runner up to Churchill as leader of Britain's powerful Conservative party, and the way things now stand will inherit the mantle of the elder statesman. Eden is one of the outstanding statesmen of England and, if we assume that the Socialist party hasn't captured the government for all time, he stands a fine chance of becoming prime minister some day.

And the moral of our story? Well, for one thing, appeasement is terrible dangerous. As for the rest I think we can sum it up in the words of one of Eden's friends:

"Anthony Eden is one of those rare men who decide to make a stand on principle, and was vindicated 100 per cent."

UNLICENSED MONEY LENDERS UNDER FIRE

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23 — The state securities division has opened a statewide drive against unlicensed money lenders with the filing of an injunction petition against Marine De Voogd, of Columbia Station.

The petition was filed in Cuyahoga county common pleas court by James F. Merkel, who alleges that De Voogd, 46, charged interest rates of 36 per cent a year and sometimes more. Legal rate for unlicensed money lenders is eight per cent a year.

"This is the most flagrant case of usury seen in Ohio in 10 years," Merkel said in asking the court to issue temporary and permanent injunctions "to prevent further violations of the Ohio small loan act." Merkel also asked that a receiver be named for De Voogd's business, and that the loans made by the former wire weaver be declared void as provided by the small loan act as penalty for violations.

Investigation of De Voogd's business started after he was assaulted Jan. 3 by Henry Hanson, hair stylist, one of the persons to whom he had loaned money, Merkel said.

Securities division examiners Merkel added, have gained possession of 188 notes for a total of more than $60,000 loaned by De Voogd in amounts from $50 to $7,000. Merkel said DeVoogd has engaged in money lending business as a sideline for 15 years.

The securities division chief said the De Voogd case was the opening phase of a statewide drive against unlicensed money lenders. He charged that nearly all such lenders are doing an illegal business.

2 Brothers Seriously Hurt in Plane Crash

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—Two Columbus brothers were seriously injured yesterday when their open cockpit plane crashed into a hillside near Circleville, O.

Paul Carpenter, 18, received compound fractures of both legs, hip injuries, head injuries, possible internal injuries and fractures of both jaws. His brother, Jack, 20, was hospitalized with head injuries and shock.

Paul was pinned in the cockpit when the plane crashed on a farm about one mile east of Darbyville, near state route 316.

White Cross hospital attaches said early today that Paul's condition was "critical," Jack's "fair."

OHIO FISHING LICENSES DISTRIBUTED FOR 1948

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—Nearly 500,000 fishing licenses for the 1948 season have been forwarded to agents throughout the state and are now on sale, Harry F. West, chief of the accounting and budget section of the Ohio division of conservation, announced today.

All persons 18 years of age or over are required to obtain a license to fish in Ohio. The only exceptions, West said, are the owners of lands or members of their immediate families, living upon such lands.

The license costs $1, plus a writing fee of 10 cents. The writing fee, in most cases, is used by conservation and sportsmen's organizations for local conservation projects.

Fishing license sales in Ohio last year reached an estimated 750,000, an increase of 55,000 over the 1945-46 season.

Smoke Comes from Fire

A

Coalition in Eire

EAMON DE VALERA has been replaced as Eire's prime minister after 16 years, not because there was any storm of opposition but because six minorities reconciled their differences to form a new government.

It is a government neither of right nor left as such things are reckoned, but a government that came to power because Eire's voters were tired of the same old faces. The new prime minister, John A. Costello, promises that he will occupy a position detached from "the controversial bitterness of the past."

The coalition has promised many things to many groups—a reduction in living costs, new excess profits taxes, a better social security program and reduced taxes on tobacco, beer and theater admissions. The coalition will have to fill those promises to keep its segments intact. De Valera still controls an important minority. If there is a falling-out among his opponents, the reins of government will be his again for the asking.

Citizen of the World

HENRY NOEL is America's first voluntarily displaced person. The 37-year-old American has renounced his citizenship and is in Germany where he will live as "a citizen of the world." He says the spectacle of separate national political entities, each striving to realize its own national ambition, has become intolerable. He has decided he can no longer be a citizen of the United States or of any nation.

This latter-day Tolstoyan anarchist says he is prepared for the consequences of his decision. They may be grim, as any of Germany's DP's can testify, and the gesture will serve no purpose. Certainly some of the consequences of nationalism are wicked, but conducting a sit-down strike against all governments will not eradicate them. The idea is to improve governments from within, not chase a fuzzy will o' the wisp masquerading as the parliament of man.

Europe's East Wall

RUSSIA'S treaty with Hungary fills the last gap in system of military alliances extending from the Black to the Baltic Sea. Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Rumania and Poland all have military alliances with Moscow and among themselves, although the Kremlin has been careful to see that the satellites don't develop economic treaties with each other.

The treaties are directed not only against a resurgent Germany, but also against "any other state which would directly or in any form unite with Germany in a policy of aggression." Three guesses as to who is meant by this phrase.

The nations under Nazi subjugation in World War II are no more free today than they were under "protectors" and gauleiters. The United States, Britain and France, each with its own military government in a sector of Germany, are confronted with a former ally now facing hostility and inveighing against "imperialism." The western allies have a right to be called imperialistic now?"

Carrying Clipping Too Far

THE CHICAGO Master Barbers [illegible] was wise, in turning down 1,917 to 677 the proposal for $1.25 haircuts. Such a move might have gone a long way toward popularizing the haircuts.

Sure, everything's higher now [illegible] but the two-bit haircut is fresh in the memory of too many living men. The $1.25 haircut would have put many a wife in the barber business in a small way and would have started a lot [illegible] in mirror-and-clipper combinations for [illegible] combining their haircutting and [illegible].

In an era of $1.25 haircuts, only [illegible] men could smile any more.

Compare Great Britain and the United States. Are we over-populated? Compare countries of comparable standards of living, Sweden, Belgium, Switzerland, Netherlands, Great Britain with the United States. Great Britain has a population nearly 10 times that of the United States.

That is something to study, not to make rash statements about. Once before I wrote about this and one of those clever "yes" or "no" men said this was not an underpopulated country, but the assumption was apparently based on soil productivity about which so little is known, particularly as we approach the revolutionary methods of chemurgy.

But this we do know: We shall have to defend ourselves and our populat on some day and we shall have to know how to do it. Can we do it without increasing our population? Is it to be assumed that we possess an intellectual superiority which gives us an advantage over other countries? And if we have to increase our population, shall we do it by increasing births, by conquering and assimilating our neighbors, or by selective immigration? We need knowledge, wisdom and unprejudiced understanding to handle that problem.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

So That He Who Rides May Suffer.

In Cincinnati, radios have been installed in all the buses and street cars.

Comes now a new menace for commuting commercials.

Moreover, a new station is being constructed exclusively to passengers. It will feature not only conventional programs, but also brief pauses for next stop identification.

Even so, there'll inevitably be those who, engrossed in a transit opera, will ride clear to the end of the line.

The trolley network will produce a generation of louder comedians, to be heard over the rumble of the wheels. And a new type of quiz program, with winning contestants paid off in transfers.

Incidentally, imagine strap-hanging homeward, after a hectic day at the office, and hearing old Vitality Voice declare: "Ah, jerssss, there's good news tonight!"

And now a brief message from our motorman: "Move to the rear of the car, please."

The Real China Policy

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

BEHIND the singularly fraudulent China aid program prepared for congress, there lies a remarkable administration, or at least a George C. Marshall, policy toward China. That policy is being attacked, and its existence will undoubtedly be denied. But the real thinking about China, on which the present phony aid program was formulated, may be plausibly summarized as follows:

To rescue the regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will require a very great investment. The rescue will also be, at best, a very messy business. The United States has neither the cash nor the stomach to do the job.

If the Chinese National government is not rescued, it is admitted that the Chinese Communists will gain control of China down to and including Yangtze River valley and may gain control of all China. The old opium dream that the Chinese Communists "aren't really Communists" no longer persists. The new and almost vaguer hope is that the Communists will either be corrupted by their new power, or in some other way will eventually break their grasp on the gigantic prize now almost within their hands.

These theories being the basis of our real China policy the only excuse for asking congress for $570 million of funds for China is that political pressure must sometimes be yielded to. This also is half-admitted. For the rest, it is agreed that sending $570 million of scarce dollars to China when China's real need is for arms and assistance in stabilizing her currency is the operation Rankin of all time. It is frankly pointed out that the Chinese that such funds are to save from [illegible] to China, [illegible] prevent the Chinese from getting [illegible] and effective.

Points for Consideration

There are several points to consider in connection with the China policy. First of all, there is the history of its inception. The man largely responsible for the present State Department "Marshall-Truman" line of thought undoubtedly great American. Yet every one of his views on the problem privately agrees and it may well be said that [illegible] Secretary Marshall is deeply committed to this policy on China a sharp personal stake for the general [illegible].

This was born in the period of [illegible] General Stilwell's bitter [illegible] with Chiang Kai-shek. It was intensified in the [illegible] Secretary Marshall's [illegible] mission to marry the [illegible] Chinese and the [illegible] to [illegible] waste [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

GENERAL PRICE RISE PREDICTED FOR STEEL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23 — The magazine Steel predicted today that a general price rise throughout the steel industry would follow last week's boost on semi-finished products.

The "hike" just prior to the opening of wage negotiations is seen as an initial step toward a general price rise anticipatory to a wage increase," the trade magazine said in its weekly summary of the metalworking industry.

Once the wage increase for industry workers is determined, "a substantial increase will be affected all along the line on finished products," Steel added.

The price hikes last week ranged from 11 to 12 per cent on semi-finished carbon steel products, the summary said, and similar action is spreading on alloy semi-finished materials.

The magazine said last week's shift from the gross to the net ton on semi-finished quotations had been sought for years to facilitate statistical and accounting procedures.

"However, some complications are likely to develop as a result of the change due to the fact freight rates are on a gross ton basis for semi-finished," Steel declared, adding:

"This brings up the possibility of an upward revision in rail charges and it also would appear to necessitate additional calculations in arriving at delivered figures."

Steel said the break in the commodity and securities markets has not been definitely reflected in steel demand to a noticeable extent.

SAFE enough for Baby

AMERICAN babies are probably the most carefully reared children in the world today. Talk to any young mother and you'll find her a walking encyclopedia of information on infant diet, training, health, and clothing. Her motto, naturally, is "nothing but the best for my baby".

THAT'S WHY a mother depends on her city water supply. She knows it's pure—safe enough even for her precious baby.

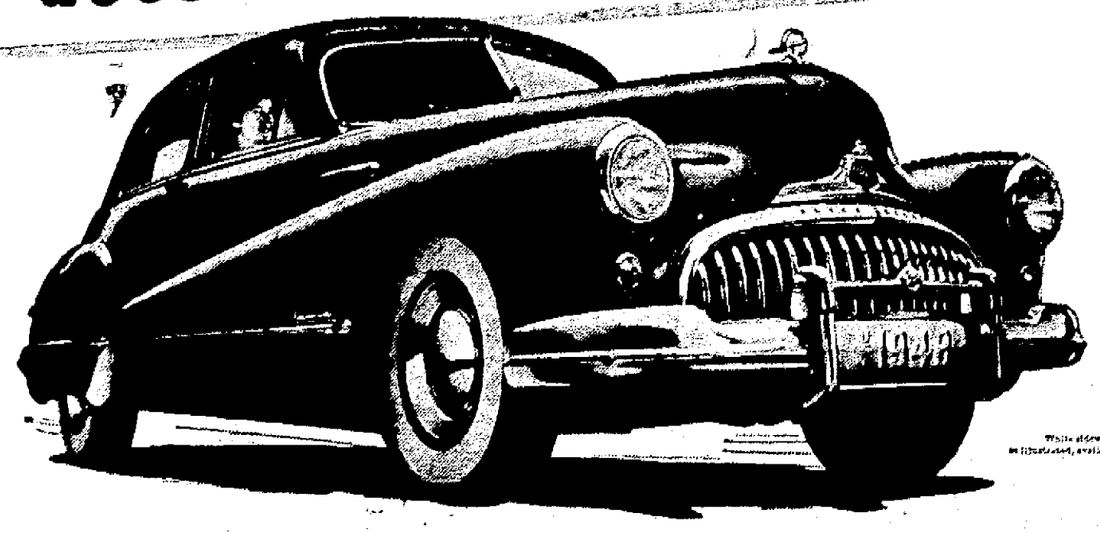
It does what no car ever did



UNDER the broad bonnet of this fashion-plate beauty is an engineering triumph as sensational as it's simple.

For this is the Buick Roadmaster with Dynaflow Drive,* and here for the first time in any car the power plant does what gears used to do.

Here is America's first car that permits you to glide swiftly forward, accelerate, surge up hills, slow down, stop, start off all over again — without any gearshifting, even automatic.

In a handful of seconds you get from standstill to highway speed with ski-run smoothness unmarred by halt, lag or hesitation. In a normal day's driving through city and country you do nothing but accelerate, brake and steer.

You never touch a clutch pedal — there is none. You never shift a gear — no gears ever shift anywhere in the car.

You just sit like a king on a big soft cushion — start the engine — set a lever — step on the gas treadle — and go!

How come this near-miracle motoring? How come there's no gearshifting — either manual or automatic?

Only in Dynaflow Drive has the principle of the oil pump and turbine been fully developed for an automobile transmission.

Only here does smooth-flowing oil replace sliding gears as a means of changing the engine's driving force to meet the needs of starting, accelerating, cruising.

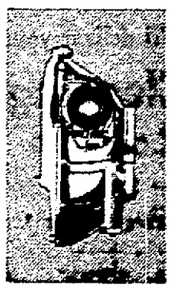
Only here do you move forward in a single, uninterrupted sweep of power entirely free of the usual steps through low, second and high gears.

And with this close-to-magic driving you have positive control under all conditions — an anchor-firm parking lock — cushioned going which can never overload or stall the engine.

Big news? But naturally!

So why delay visiting us? Come learn more about Dynaflow — and see if this single feature alone of the new Buick's 30-odd new advances isn't crowning reason for getting an order in right now.

Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models.*



No gears ever shift in DYNAFLOW DRIVE*

In Buick's new Dynaflow Drive, sliding gear transmissions and complex gear-changers are made unnecessary. You simply set a selector lever and step on the gas. The power plant does the rest, adjusting itself to varying driving conditions with utter smoothness. You start up — accelerate — climb hills — cruise — stop — start up again — all without touching the selector lever.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

BUICK alone has all these features

★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE* ★ TAPER-THRU STYLING
★ VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE ★ SAFETY-RIDE RIMS
★ HI-POISED FIREBALL POWER
★ QUADRUFLEX COIL SPRINGING
★ FLEX-FIT OIL RINGS

A GOWN of imported Venice lace and satin with a deep ivory tone at the front of the bodice, worn by Miss Jeanne Stein of 236 Lee avenue, for her marriage to Bernard Blonder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blonder of Cleveland O., and Miami Beach, Fla., Saturday evening at Hotel Harding. Two hundred guests attended the ceremony, which was read at 7 o'clock in the ballroom by Rabbi Bertram Levinson of Pittsburgh, Pa., cousin of the bridegroom.

The bodice which extended to form a point at the front and back was of the lace. A sweetheart neckline was joined to the drop-shoulder neckline by clusters of lace caught with pearls. The lower and point edging also edged the sleeves. The full skirt of satin extended into a chapel Cathedral train. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a lace headpiece of orange pearls and flowers, and she carried a large bouquet of lily white gardenias and white pompons combined with trailing ivy. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Preceding the bride to the altar were her cousin, Miss Saul Goldstein of Cleveland, matron of honor, Miss Norma Rose of Cleveland, also a cousin of the bridegroom, maid of honor, and Miss Judith Ann Stein, sister of the bride, the junior bridesmaid.

Mrs. Goldstein and Miss Rose wore gowns fashioned alike of imported Venice lace and taffeta in a pink shade. The bodice styled with a V-shaped neckline, had cap sleeves and a peplum which was worn over the head to form a halo effect. They carried bouquets of blue carnations with silver leaves and tied with silver ribbon.

Miss Stein was attired in a gown of blue moire. The off-the-shoulder neckline was accented with a wide ruffle. The bodice had puffed sleeves and the full skirt was gathered at the waist. Her bouquet was pink carnations, combined with silver leaves and silver ribbon, and she wore pink carnations in her hair.

Jerry Blonder of Cleveland, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Erwin Blonder of Cleveland, brother of the bridegroom, and Sanford Rosenthal of Pittsburgh, Pa., cousin of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stein chose a floor length aqua crepe gown trimmed with gold and silver bugle beading in lace leaf designs on the waist and skirt. The bodice was styled with long sleeves and a round neckline. Mrs. Blonder was attired in a floor length gown in a gray shade fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves, one of which was trimmed with silver bugle beading. Each wore a purple orchid corsage.

The ballroom for the ceremony was decorated with palms and two large baskets of white gladioli. To repeat their vows, the couple stood beneath a canopy of greenery outlined with white gladioli, caught at either side with large white bows. Lighted candles in tall holders tied with white bows formed an isle to the improvised altar.

A half-hour program of nuptial music was presented preceding the ceremony by Miss Virginia Grover, pianist, and Mrs. George Griffiths, vocalist. Mrs. Grover's selections included "One Alone," Romberg, "Estrellita," Ponce, "Sidut d'amour," Elgar, "Always," Berlin, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," Saint Saens, "Only A Rose," Primi, and the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Griffiths sang 'Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," Herbert, "Because," D'Hardelot, and "I Love You Truly," Bond.

Following the ceremony, the couple received their guests in the Presidential Suite. Large baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line.

A buffet supper was served in the ballroom. The table, laid with an imported lace cloth, was centered with a bouquet of pink and blue carnations with tall white candles in crystal candelabra. The large four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was surrounded with an arrangement of greenery and pink and blue carnations. Later in the evening, Don Lister and his orchestra played for dancing in the ballroom.

Serving at the dinner reception were Mrs. S. G. Rosenberg, Miss Betty Freed, Mrs. Sol Freed, Miss Gertrude Hamburg, Mrs. Al Hamburg, Miss Ruth Elaine Browarsky, Mrs. Newman Browarsky, Miss Mary Jean Freidberg and Mrs. M. M. Weinbaum, all of Marion, Mrs. Jerry Blonder and Mrs. Erwin Blonder of Cleveland, sisters-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Esther Rosalie Landon of Cleveland, cousin of the bride.

When the newly married couple left on a wedding trip to Miami Beach, Fla., Mrs. Blonder was wearing a wool crepe suit in a coral shade fashioned Gibson Girl style. The skirt was styled with four unpressed pleats in the front. With this she combined navy blue accessories and wore a sheer beaver coat. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of gardenias from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return, the couple will reside for the present at 2579 Channing road in Cleveland.

Mrs. Blonder was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1945 and from the Vogue School of Fashion and Photography in Chicago, Ill. Mr. Blonder attended Western Reserve university in Cleveland and Ohio State university at Columbus. He served three years with the Army in World War II. He is now associated with his father in the Blonder Wall Paper and Paint Co. of Cleveland.

Saturday noon, a luncheon for the out-of-town guests was held at the Stein home. The table was centered with pink carnations and lighted with candles.

The bride's gifts to her matron of honor and maid of honor were compacts and to the junior bridesmaid she gave a pearl necklace. The bridegroom gave his best man and ushers alligator belts.

Guests from out of the city included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Blonder, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Blonder, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Goldstein, Mrs. Esther Rose, Miss Norma Rose, Mr. and Mrs. David Kazan, Mr. and Mrs. I. Levinson, Mrs. Rose Somberg and daughter, Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Frankel, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baskind, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Baskind, Mrs. Herschel Baskind, Mrs. Min Baskind, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Baskind, Al Baskind, Mrs. Sarel Baskind, Miss Rose Arian, Mrs. Florence May, Al Alper, Dr. and Mrs. Minster, Mr. and Mrs. William Ginsberg, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Micky Kline, Mrs. Gertrude Friedland, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Levine, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bloomberg, Mrs. S. Raphael and daughter, Esther Rosalie, all of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Baskind, Mr. and Mrs. M. Baskind, Mr. and Mrs. H. Baskind, Mr. and Mrs. P. Sadowsky and Rabbi and Mrs. Bertram Levinson, all of Pittsburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Lou Browarsky of Fort Wayne, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Mose Engelhard of Garrett, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. L. Engelhard, Bill Greep, Miss Nellie Steinbelpher and Mr. and Mrs. S. Morris, all of Bucyrus; Mr. and Mrs. Max Grad of Upper Sandusky, Al Engelhard, Mr. and Mrs. S. Shoman and Mr. and Mrs. Al Trauberberg of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wyse, Miss Eileen Epstein, Buddy Goodman, Hugo Liening, Mark Frost, Donald Gronsberg and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Glassman of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Howard of Chicago, Mrs. Bergman and Mr. Martin of Nelsonville, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Bass and of Cincinnati, and Al Solkoy of Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blonder, parents of the bridegroom, entertained with a brunch for the out-of-town guests at Hotel Harding. Covers were placed for 40 in the Presidential suite.

MRS. BERNARD BLONDER —Photo by Stein

The marriage of Miss Vera Hinaman of near Caledonia to John Carr of Columbus, which took place Saturday, Feb. 14, was announced when the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hindman, entertained with a dinner Sunday, Feb. 15, at their home near Caledonia. The wedding took place in Greenup, Ky., on the twenty-second wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hindman.

Centering the table for the dinner was a large decorated wedding cake.

Mr. Carr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carr of Columbus and a grandson of Mrs. Sarah Carr of 284 Glad street. He is employed at the New York Central roundhouse in Columbus, where the couple will reside.

Plans were made for a potluck supper to be held Feb. 25 when Mrs. Ellen Wells entertained the Merri 12 club recently at the home of Mrs. Margaret Leslie on Park street. The supper is to be with Mrs. Mary Mishler of North State street. Euchre was played with high honors going to Mrs. Mishler, and second and floating to Mrs. Lewis. Mrs. Ivan Northup and Mrs. Pauline Everly were guests.

Mrs. C. E. Stauffer of 744 Windsor street entertained with a birthday party Wednesday in celebration of the anniversary of her son, Bobby. In games the awards were won by Max White and Sally Linscott. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. A. B. Sanderson. Present with the celebrant were Sally and Linda Linscott, Gary Plymale, Susan Foreman, Karin Hausenstein, Kathryn Kinsler, Dianne Gillis, Tommy Jenkins, Tom Coss, Max White, Don Garverick, Eddie Martin and Ronnie Stauffer.

Mrs. Daisy Salter and Mrs. Bertie Powell received contest honors at a meeting of the C. D. S. club Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Louise Griffith. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Esther Bishop, Mrs. Mary Reardon and Mrs. Allie Ebling.

FAREWELL PARTY HELD

At a meeting of Kirkpatrick Grange Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hord, a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hord was featured. They will leave in the near future for their new home west of Bucyrus. A gift from the Grange was presented to them. It was announced that the Grange gave a donation to the March of Dimes infantile paralysis fund. Degree work was discussed, also an invitation to give a program for the Monnette Community club. An application blank signed with 10 names, asking for organizatoin of a juvenile Grange, was received. Contests were in charge of Mrs. Jasper Hill, lecturer. The team headed by Robert Hord won a prize.

REV. KING, FRIEND OF HARDING, DIES

Was Pastor of Trinity Church from 1912-1915.

Word has been received here of the death Friday of Dr. Walter A. King, former pastor of Trinity Baptist church and a close friend of President Warden G. Harding. He took part in funeral rites for President Harding here in August, 1923. His death occurred in the home of a daughter, the former Miss Gwendolyn King, at Clinton, N. Y. Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 3:30 p. m. at Ashtabula. Dr. King served as pastor here from November 1912 to July, 1915. He was first pastor of Trinity church which was formed from a merger of the former Free Baptist and First Baptist churches. He came here from Martins Ferry. On leaving Marion, he went to Butte, Mont., where he had accepted a call to become pastor.

Surviving are his widow, the daughter in whose home he died, two sons, Donald King and Tower King, whose addresses are not known here, and another daughter, Mrs. Albert E. S. McMahon, the former Miss Dorothy King, who lives at Ashtabula.

Czech Police Seize Socialist Party Offices

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, Feb. 23—Security police armed with submachine guns and rifles took over today headquarters of the Czech National Socialists party. Armed guards were placed before the offices of the Czech wireless, parliament and foreign offices in the first display of weapons in the government crisis.

The National Socialist party headquarters were seized just before noon. The party is one of three seeking to withdraw from the coalition government headed by the Communist premier, Klement Gottwald.

Two hours after the seizure, the Czech press agency professed to know nothing of the action. The ministry of interior, controlled by the Communists, gave no explanation.

Dr. Zdenek Marjanko, an employe of the ministry of justice, was arrested earlier.

GOP ANGRY THAT BIG STEEL RAISED PRICES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Angry Republicans may rake big steel over the coals this week for boosting prices.

The senate-house economic committee has arranged to question three "typical" steel executives at public hearings Thursday.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) said big steel, little steel and independents will be represented. He ruled out any circus atmosphere.

But there are signs Taft himself feels the steel industry may have put the Republican congress over a political barrel by boosting some prices after the lawmakers had voted to rely on voluntary action to keep down the cost of living.

Some Republicans think steel has given President Truman and the Democrats a new argument for government controls. They blame big steel primarily for the price jump.

BREAD DROPS 1½ CENTS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—The price of a large loaf of bread dropped a cent and a half today in independent grocery stores. Harry A. Nation, executive secretary of the Columbus Retail Grocers' association, said bakers had reduced the wholesale price from 15 to 13½ cents. The reduction is now being passed on to consumers, he said.

TAFT ASKS MILITARY HELP FOR CHINA

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Feb. 23 — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today called for American military help for China.

He termed President Truman's $570,000,000 assistance plan a "relief program" which "will completely fail to solve the problem" of Communist pressure.

Taft said Secretary of State Marshall had been "unwillingly forced" into drafting the aid program sent to congress last week.

"The truth is," Taft said in an address prepared for an economic club luncheon, "that Secretary Marshall does not like the Chinese and has no interest in their problems."

The Ohio senator, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he considers the Far East as ultimately more important to peace than Europe.

Yet today, in China, he continued, "We continue a policy which threatens to undo in the Far East everything the Marshall Plan (for European recovery) is trying to do in Western Europe."

NEW CLASS MEETS

The first meeting of the newly organized Martha-Mary class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church was held Thursday night in the home of the teacher, Miss Vera Stull, on St. James street. Miss Doris Brading was elected president; Mrs. Mildred Sidenstricker, vice president; and Mrs. Donna Turner, secretary-treasurer. It was decided to hold meetings the fourth Thursday of each month. Contest honors went to Mrs. Mary Weston, Miss Mary Jane Zachman and Miss Stull. The social committee was composed of Mrs. Sidenstricker, Mrs. Evelyn Davis, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Inez Sullivan.

GIRL SUFFOCATES IN FIRE

By The Associated Press

CORRY, Pa., Feb. 23—A five-year-old girl suffocated in a clothes closet last night as fire swept through a four-story restaurant and rooming house. The body of Jacqueline Havarilla, daughter of co-owner Mrs. Gertrude Havarilla, was found in the second floor closet after firemen had brought the blaze under control.

Girl Student Held In Death of Newborn Baby

By The Associated Press

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 23—A 19-year-old honor student was held without charge today after State's Attorney John Bresee said she told him she strangled her newborn baby with a stocking.

The girl, detained in a barred room in county hospital, is Muriel Ostrowsky of Lawrence, N. Y., a pre-legal student at the University of Illinois. She will be 20 tomorrow.

Bresee said the co-ed declined to reveal the name of the child's father. She said he was a University of Illinois student from Chicago.

The baby was born in Miss Ostrowsky's rooming-house and Bresee said the girl told him she strangled the baby Friday night. She said she did not know whether the infant was born dead or alive and that she strangled it "as a precaution," the prosecutor stated.

CIRCLE ENTERTAINING

For a meeting of Circle No. 7 of First Presbyterian church Thursday, Mrs. O. M. Young was hostess in her home on East Church street, and Mrs. Edward Robisch was assistant hostess. Mrs. Alfred LaPierre and Mrs. Lulu Merchant were enrolled as new members. A poem was read by Mrs. R. I. Butterworth, followed by prayer. Devotions from Genesis were given by Mrs. C. B. Strother who read a topic from the Upper Room. Mrs. W. H. Pohler presented a paper on part of the book, "Joseph the Provider" by Thomas Mann. It was announced that Circle No. 7 will serve the men's dinner at the church March 15.

WRONG ADDRESS GIVEN

Earl LeRoy Klotz, arrested by the state liquor department agents Sunday, Feb. 14, and arraigned in court last Friday on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquors for sale, was taken into custody at 183 North Main street. In the Star's account of his arraignment in court Friday, the address was incorrectly given as 179 North Main street.

EX-VATICAN OFFICIAL DIES

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 23—Luigi Rossignani, 70, brother-in-law of Pope Pius XII, died last night. Rossignani, who married the pontiff's sister, Elizabeth Pacelli, formerly was employed in the Vatican's administration section. He had been retired several years.

Dentist Tells Us How To Keep Our Teeth

By The United Press

ST. LOUIS—Want to have a full set of teeth (natural) when you're 60?

Just follow the four rules laid down by Dr. Henry F. Westoff of St. Louis before the Mid-Continent Dental Congress.

They are:

1. Early and frequent dental examination.
2. Immediate treatment of small cavities, long before they start paining.
3. A nutritious diet with a minimum of refined sugar.
4. Brush your teeth after each meal.

Most dental failures, the congress was told, are due to disregard of one or all of those basic rules.

"Hey Bob, On the Beam" Good Traffic Slogan

By The United Press

OMAHA, Neb.—If the Omaha Safety Council has its way, pedestrians disobeying traffic regulations will be warned in these words: "Hey Bob! Be on the beam."

The phrase is a slogan formulated by the council to help cut down the traffic toll, which last year reached record proportions.

The "Hey, Bob!" warning was conceived as a friendly admonition of one Omahan to another to stop jaywalking, going against the light, and other violations, according to Council Manager Paul R. Stevens and M. J. Timmins, chairman of traffic engineering.

YOUNG

that time. Identification followed several days later when John Hodson, a former Ohioan and now sheriff of Prowers county, recognized Young from a circular issued by Sheriff LeRoy Retterer of Marion county offering a $1,000 reward for Young's capture.

Returned to Marion

Notified immediately, the sheriff, County Prosecutor James E. Reed and Special Prosecutor Russell Wilhelm went to Colorado to return Young, who waived extradition and confessed the murder. He was returned here within a week and given a preliminary hearing before Judge Paul D. Smith who appointed former County Prosecutor Paul D. Michel to defend him.

At arraignment, Michel entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of first degree murder for his client and Judge Smith set the trial date. Young had been indicted by the September grand jury on a charge of first degree murder while he was still at large.

Ohio Vet Bonus Forms Mailed to Officials

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23 — No Ohio veteran need go without his bonus for lack of the application blank.

The bonus commission disclosed today that 2,853,150 of the No. 1 blanks, the kind for living veterans,, had been sent to county bonus officials.

The figure is three times the estimated 827,000 veterans, plus 15 per cent for reserve.

The forms, plus envelopes, weigh 108,577 pounds. The biggest load, 531,300 forms weighing 20,213 pounds, goes to Cuyahoga county. The lightest loads, 3,450 forms weighing 132 pounds go to each of four counties—Vinton, Morrow, Morgan and Holmes.

Chinese Communists Advance on Mukden

By The Associated Press

TSINGTAO, China, Feb. 23—Chinese Communist troops wheeled their big guns close enough to shake hungry, beleaguered Mukden today in their steady advance on the heart of Manchuria.

Military reports and eyewitness accounts showed the desperate plight of the big industrial city.

(Government sources in Peiping reported another grave setback—the loss of Faku, 45 miles north of Mukden. Its fall tightened the Communist blockade of Mukden and opened the way for Communist assaults from the north.)

8-Mile-a-Minute Jets To Get Test Hops Soon

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 23—Jet planes which split the air at eight miles a minute—the fastest planes now with any operational unit of the U. S. fleet—soon will be given a tryout on an aircraft carrier.

This was disclosed today after a public demonstration of the SJ-1 fighters, built by North American Aviation, Inc.

The test will be made off San Diego.

RESIGNS IN PROTEST. John B. Burks (above), principal of the high school in Lakeview, Ga., reported he had resigned in protest against the county board's action in "firing" Coach Walter Rowland. The basketball coach, who has been carrying on an armed feud with the Ku Klux Klan, has hired a lawyer, he says, and will sue the board to hold his job. (Associated Press Wirephoto) undertaking getting underway at this time. As the business gets underway three other magazine contracts will be handled this year. They are Newsweek scheduled to begin April 1, Architectural Forum, June 15, and Atlantic Monthly, Aug. 1.

MAGAZINE

According to the Magazine Industry Newsletter, the "Kiplinger Letter" of the publishing field, the Fulfillment Corp. will use the Lincoln Electric Incentive Plan in the operation of the business. Contracts with publishers call for a minimum handling charge, but savings for publishers over their present costs are to be divided among management, employes and publishers.

Mr. Ward today voiced his praise of the assistance given the firm in locating here by the Marion Chamber of Commerce, through Mr. Webster.

"Mr. Webster was largely instrumental in the success of the company locating here," Mr. Ward said, stating that he had been in close contact with the Chamber secretary since last August.

Work Through OSES

Company officials were highly satisfied with the cooperation given by the local employment office in the problem of securing adaptable personnel. It was pointed out that the employment office had been especially alert to the specific needs of the new firm and through its own aptitude tests had been able to furnished the Fulfillment Corp. qualified applicants for positions.

Mr. Ward reported that as a result of the employment service's screening, eight out of ten applicants here were able to pass the company given interview and examination while in Chicago only about 25 per cent of applicants were found to be acceptable.

About 85 per cent of the employes here will be women, Mr. Ward said. Our qualifications are principally those of average intelligence coupled with a will to work and to learn, he added.

The big problem is training personnel in the use of business machines, he explained. Specially designed machines are being installed for making circulation records, new and renewal subscriptions, billings for subscriptions due. Other phases of the Fulfillment business will include compilation of statistical data on subscription trends, and issuing of promotional literature and subscription correspondence.

The business will occupy the entire four-story building with its 20,000 square feet of floor space. Extensive remodeling has been done and is still in process as personnel are trained and business operations get underway.

Type of Machines

The business machines used by the Fulfillment Corp. are the IBM electrically operated punch card type. Virtually the entire process of recording, sorting and compiling subscription information is done by those machines.

For example a certain type machine records information such as name and address of subscriber, date of subscription, whether new or renewal, the manner in which it was obtained, and other pertinent information.

Another machine sorts cards taking out all desired to be removed from the files by virtue of expired subscription, for example.

Mr. Ward explained that in cases where a master list is kept from week to week, new cards are run through one machine, then fed into a second machine together with the master list of cards. The second machine weeds out all cards to be eliminated and at the same time inserts the new cards in proper order, all in one operation, at the rate of 8,000 cards an hour.

Machines can be regulated to sort cards for any given information required, with the obvious saving of time and personnel and elimination of the human margin of error.

MISSION SOCIETY MEETS

Thursday afternoon, a meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church was held in the home of Mrs. Homer Hartpence on East Center street. Devotions were by Mrs. Hartpence. It was voted to give $1 to the women's department of the Ohio Council of Churches, and committees were appointed for a rummage sale to be held April 9. Mrs. Len Thompson reviewed part of the study book. Closing prayer was by Mrs. Charles Lamb. Mrs. Blanche Metz was a guest. Tea was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Don Hamilton.

CALL MEETING HERE TO ORGANIZE PLAYERS

Dramatic Club To Be Considered Tuesday Night.

Plans are underway in Marion by several Marion residents to form a dramatic club for the interest of the community A meeting to organize a little theater group in Marion has been announced for Tuesday at 7:30 p m. in the reading room at the Y.M.C.A. by Bob Slatzer, who is heading the organization group

The last dramatic group to exist in Marion was known as the Marion Mimes This group which presented a play or some form of entertainment about once each month, disbanded in the early 1930's after being very active for a number of years

It is believed by interested persons in Marion that a dramatic group would be a great interest

All persons interested in any phase of acting or other entertainment are asked to attend the meeting Tuesday night The club will be open to men and women, boys and girls of all ages In play production, persons are needed for acting and to be in charge of make-up costumes, writing, musical arrangements, lighting and designing, so anyone interested is asked to attend

Present plans Mr Slatzer announced, are to present a three-act play in early May, and in the future, a play every two or three months Officers are to be elected this week, and plans will be started on selecting and casting a play for production Several teachers in Marion have also expressed the desire to take part and assist in coaching a dramatic group here

Tax Time—No. 1

March 15 Date All Taxpayers Must Be Square with Uncle Sam

...what about his in-...

JAMES MARLOW
...ciated Press Writer

...NGTON, Feb. 23—March ...deline for final set-...your 1947 income tax. ...people it will mean ...return without any ...Others will have to ...on and pay in full any ...

...y attention to talk of ...ry congress. Any cut ...s through will be on ...e, not on 1947 income.

You have to settle up by March 15 on 1947 income.

James Marlow

The big dividing line—in deciding who has to file a return—is $500.

Income of $500 or more must be reported, even though you don't have to pay a tax on it. Income under $500 doesn't have to be reported.

So remember these things:

▶If you had $500 or more income in 1947, you must file a return. If any tax is owed, you must pay it by March 15.

▶You still must file a return if you had $500 or more income, even though full tax was withheld from it in 1947. If you were overtaxed, you'll get a refund.

▶If you had under $500, you'll get a refund by filing. Income under $500 is not taxable.

Be careful about exemptions and dependents, particularly in the case of a wife.

Take the wife first—

You get a $500 exemption for yourself, always, and another $500 for your wife—if she had no income.

If she had income, even though under $500, you can't claim exemption for her unless you include her income in a joint return with yours.

If she had $500 or more income, then you both must file a return. You can do that in one of two ways:

▶A joint return. In this you claim a total $1,000 exemption, $500 for you, $500 for her.

▶Separate returns. You claim your $500 exemption, she claims hers, separately. You may save money by filing separately when her income was $500 or more.

(There'll be a separate story in this series on husbands and wives.)

Now take a dependent—

For each dependent you get a $500 exemption provided—this is important—he didn't have $500 or more income of his own.

If he had $500 or more income, you can't claim him as a dependent, even though you contributed to more than half his support in 1947.

Say you had a schoolboy son and last year he had $500 or more income. Say he turned it all over to you, or, maybe, kept it himself.

What happens? You can't claim him as a dependent. He has to file his own return, in his own name. But you'll be responsible for paying his tax, if he doesn't.

NOW SUPPOSE YOU had a dependent—say a schoolboy son—who had less than $500 income in 1947. And suppose he kept the money or turned it over to you.

Because his income was under $500, he doesn't have to file a return. And you don't have to include his income in your return.

If your dependent's income was under $500 but tax was withheld from any of it, he should file a return. In that way he'll get the tax refunded.

At the same time, in your return, you can claim him as a dependent and get the full $500 exemption for him.

(The problem of dependents and exemptions will be explained in a later story.)

Some people, besides making a final return on 1947 income by March 15, must do something else by that date, too.

They must start paying a quarterly installment on their estimated tax for 1948. This, too, will be explained in a later story.

Next: Filing a return on Form W-2, the withholding statement.

LUTHERAN CLASS MEETS

Music and moving pictures on sports were part of a program for a meeting of the Senior Bible classes of Emanuel Lutheran church Tuesday night in the church parlors. A donation of $10 was voted for Red Cross and money was voted for the church flower fund. Vocal numbers were by Mrs. House, accompanied by Mrs. William Ackerman, and Maurice Kaelber played selections on the trombone accompanied by Miss Anita Kaelber. The moving pictures were shown by Aynard Solie. On the refreshment committee were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bentley, Mrs. Eva Gorenflo, Mrs. Anna Bohner, Mrs. Matilda Sinning and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Laubner.

DRAWINGS for the Class A Central district basketball tournament will be held in High School Commissioner H. V. Sneiweiler's office in Columbus next Saturday morning. The tourney gets under way March 2 at the state fairgrounds coliseum the same day the Class B tourney begins at Otterbein university's gymnasium in Westerville. The Class B drawings will be held Monday, March 1, at Otterbein. . . . Marion county's sole representative in the A tourney will be Harding High school, while upholding Marion's name in the B tourney will be four schools, three of which have already been selected, the fourth to emerge in the county consolation finals next Saturday. . . . The three representatives are Marion St Mary, an exempted entry, and Caledonia and Morral. The Fourth entry could be either LaRue, Pleasant, Prospect or Meeker.

NEARLY 40 SCHOOLS will be entered in the B tourney, and 18 will play in the A. . . . Columbus sends 12 A schools, Central, Grandview, St. Charles, West, Rosary, North, Bexley, South, Linden—all with records better than Harding's—and East, Arlington and Aquinis. . . . Other schools in the A meet will be Delaware, Circleville, Mt. Vernon, Newark and Washington C. H. . . . Besides county tourney champions, runners-up, and consolation winners, other entries in the B tourney include Mt. Gilead, Delaware St. Mary, Marysville, London, and Lancaster St. Mary.

CLASS A TOURNAMENT favorite is Columbus Central, who will go into the annual scrap with a sparkling record of 20 wins against a single loss, though Newark is a perennial tournament threat. . . . Toughies in the B playoffs include Marysville and Marion St. Mary among the exempted schools, and possibly all of Marion county's entries. . . . Caledonia, for example, has taken the best of three counties who's teams will be represented in the tourney—Delaware, Franklin, and Morrow.

THE CLASS A WINNER will compete in the southwestern regional tournament to be held this year at Xavier in Cincinnati instead of Dayton. . . . Two B winners will go on to the regionals—one to Springfield and the other to Athens.

Turnbull Wins Ohio Gallery Rifle Title

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—John Turnbull is Ohio's gallery rifle champion again.

The raw-boned Cedarville farmer, state champ in 1944, regained the crown yesterday scoring 1,060 out of a possible 1,100 points.

Gene Kaber of Cleveland matched Turnbull's score but lost out by a complete miss in the standing match. Turnbull banged 189 of 200 in that event.

Lima's Paul Spry, 1947 champion, finished far down the list.

Ruth Temple, 21-year-old Dayton miss, nosed out the defending women's champ, Jean Brewbaker Seubert, Ohio State university student from Akron. Miss Temple won by one point with 474 of 600.

More than 250 marksmen, largest field in the event's history, participated in the two-day tournament.

TURNS DOWN PRO JOB

By The Associated Press

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Feb. 23—Head Football Coach Carl Snavely of the University of North Carolina said today he had declined an offer to become coach of the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America conference. The 56-year-old Snavely was reportedly offered $25,000 a year plus a commission to coach the pro club.

CALEDONIA, MORRAL ADVANCE TO TOURNEY FINALS

Send LaRue and Meeker Back To Consolation Semifinal Tilts

Caledonia and Morral advanced to the finals of the Marion county basketball tournament by winning semi-final games Saturday night. Caledonia got to the championship bout for the second straight year with a well earned 40 to 32 win over a hard-fighting but tense LaRue team on the Morral floor. Morral earned the right to play in the championship battle by virtue of a 49 to 31 decision over a surging Meeker crew on the New Bloomington maples.

In consolation games Pleasant whipped New Bloomington 59 to 22 and Prospect overcame Waldo 40 to 37. As a result of Saturday night's games LaRue will meet Meeker and Pleasant will hook up with Prospect in the consolation semi-finals at Morral Thursday night. The two winners will meet to decide third place and a trip to the district tourney at Westerville in a preliminary to the Morral-Caledonia championship battle Saturday night.

Caledonia Gets Lead

The defending tourney champions Caledonia team got off to an early lead on LaRue and held on to the finish by virtue of expert shooting. The game which was expected to be a scoring battle developed into a defensive joust with each team a little afraid of the other.

Goals by Gene Fleming, giant center and Kenneth Comstock, league scoring champion put the Donians out in front in the early moments. LaRue failed to connect with a field goal during the first period and had trouble all night with the basket from the field as they made only 9 of 52 shots at the hoop. Caledonia connected with 17 of 48 heaves.

Harold Brockleshy, although considerably off form led the scoring with 17 points by connecting on 9 of 13 foul attempts. Comstock was high for the winners with 14 points. Fleming was held to eight.

Forty-six fouls were called by officials Staley and Cofer, 24 on LaRue and 22 on Caledonia. LaRue converted on 26 attempts while the winners connected on only 6 of 28 tries. Both Fleming and John Robertson fouled out for the winners while Ralph Wilson and John Tate were sent to an early showers for rule infractions.

Same Story Elsewhere

About the same story occurred at New Bloomington in the Morral-Meeker battle. Morral got off to a 12 to 8 first quarter lead and increased it to 20 to 12 at the intermission. Meeker came back to whittle it down to 28 to 24 at the three quarter mark but Morral pulled away in the final session by scoring 12 points to 7 by Meeker. Dick Granlee, Morral forward led the scoring with 11 with Jim Weston of the same team getting 10. Jim Brown was best for Meeker with 10 points. Walter Yost, tall Meeker pivotman, was held to five points.

Pleasant continued on the comeback trail by trouncing New Bloomington 59 to 22 in a preliminary to the Morral-Meeker scrap. Outscoring the losers in every frame the Townshippers led 32 to 10 at half time. Coach Melvin Bernow started an all senior team with Robert Dunbar replacing Randy Dickason, in the starting lineup. The scrappy redhead proceeded to lead the scoring parade with 15 points. Jack Merchant was not far behind with 12 points and Ron Gorby with 11. Kenton and Glenn led the losers with six points each.

The best game of the two sessions was between Prospect and Waldo. Prospect held a 9 to 8 advantage at the first quarter but Waldo lied it up at 19 all at the intermission. A big third quarter by Prospect when they scored 13 points while holding Waldo to six decided the issue. The losers came back in the final frame but a rally fell short by three points. Waldo's potential scoring leader, Don Heimlich, fouled out in the third stanza. He was soon followed by Jack Smith, a good ball handler and playmaker. Joe Wolf, dribbling demon of Prospect, led the scoring with 12 points. Fred Thiecken was best for Waldo with 8 points.

Assault, Triple Crown Winner, Will Be Retired

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23—Assault, the Texas thoroughbred that parlayed a club foot and a champion's heart into a $626,620 fortune, will be retired from racing effective immediately.

The great chestnut handicap speedster, voted the "horse of the year" in 1946 after winning the "triple crown," will be sent to Robert J. Kleberg's King ranch farm outside Lexington, Ky.

Thus ends the racing career of a horse whose story-book rise to fame despite a crippled foot is already turf legend.

It would have been a better ending if Assault had won his last race in a dramatic stretch drive. But he didn't. Sent from Columbia, S. C., to compete against his arch rival, Calumet Farm's Armed, Assault ran fifth in the Widener classic, four lengths behind the golden gelding.

El Mono, surprise horse of the season, was the victor, however.

Kleberg said the decision to retire Assault was made after it was found he had burst an osslet in the race. An osslet is a growth on the ankle which racing thoroughbreds sometimes get as a result of the hard pounding on the turf.

The peak of Assault's career was in the spring of 1946 when he won the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes—all $100,000 events—to capture what the turf world calls the "triple crown."

Assault's $626,620 ranks third among all time money winners. Stymie leads with $816,060 and Armed is second with $776,700.

In 33 starts Assault has won 16 races, has 5 seconds and 5 thirds.

SPORTS ROUNDUP
by Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23—All of a sudden, Miami has found that boom times are back and most folks don't know what to make of it. . . . A little over a week ago there weren't any crowds around. . . . Then, with no warning the hotels filled up, the race track began doing the same sort of business it did a year ago. . . . When they ran the Widener at Hialeah Saturday, attendance and betting records were broken—and most of the customers were broke. They cast all their betting on Armed and Assault. . . . Incidentally, Mort Mahoney of the Hialeah mutuels department maintains that half the people who watch horses race here never see them anywhere else. They come from states where there's no racing or they save their betting pennies for their winter vacation.

JOE DIMAGGIO, who is amazingly obliging for a guy who earns some $0,000 bucks a year, made a flying trip here over the weekend to help publicize the "Heart Fund" drive and to attend a dinner in honor of Babe Ruth. . . . The only time he really loosened up was when he visited the Children's Cardiac hospital and solemnly warned the youngsters, "Take care of yourself."

LIMA PACKING TAKES CITY BOWLING TOURNEY

The City bowling tournament ended Saturday at the Palace Recreation with Lima Packing retaining top spot on a score of 2901. Fahey Bank took second position with a score of 2826, and Huber Products' score of 2819 was good for third place standing.

Five teams bowled Saturday, including Machine Room No. 1 with a score of 2740; O. P. S. Sweepers, 2629; M. P. S., 2683; Night Owls, 2587 and O. P. S. Irons 2621. High series was made by L. Yinger on a score of 526, the O. P. S. hit 839 for high team score in one game.

General McClellan ran against Abraham Lincoln for President in 1864.

WIN GOLF MATCHES

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Bob Hamilton, former P.G.A. champion, won the $10,000 New Orleans open golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 280.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla.—Jimmy Paul, Daytona Beach, Fla., defeated Edwin Preisler, former Ohio amateur titleholder, one up in 36 holes to win the 16th national tournament of golf champions.

EQUALS TRACK RECORD

NEW YORK—Harrison Dillard, Baldwin-Wallace, equalled his world indoor record of 7.2 seconds for the 60-yard high hurdles in the National A.A.U. indoor track and field championships. William Mathis, Urbana, Ill., equalled the world indoor record of 6.1 in the 70-yard dash. The New York Athletic club won the team title.

SETS TANK RECORD

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Michigan's 300-yard medley relay team bettered the world's record with a mark of 2:49.1. The old record of 2:50.5 was also set by a Michigan team.

JUNIOR HIGH GRADERS IN TOURNEY SATURDAY

Vernon Junior High's seventh graders defeated Edison, 19-7, Central dropped Edison, 11-9, and Vernon topped Central, 28-2, in three games played on the Edison gym Saturday afternoon.

Vernon's youngsters were led by Don Hammon who scored seven points against Edison and by Bob Unland who scored 10 tallies in the second game against Central.

Edison's high scorer was Brady who racked four points. Central, in licking Edison in an overtime period, was paced by Taylor and Dawson with four points each.

FESLER TO TALK TO UPPER BOOSTER CLUB

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 23—Football in general and football at Ohio State in particular will be the subject of the guest speaker, Coach Wesley Fesler, at the first annual football roundup program, sponsored by the Rams Boosters club, at Upper Sandusky High school auditorium, Thursday, Feb. 25 at 8 p. m.

Coach Fesler also will show motion pictures of the State-Iowa and State-Northwestern games, and has consented to conduct a "question period" following his talk.

A meeting of the Boosters club will follow the program and reports of committees will be presented to the group. Additional data has been received on the type of athletic field bleachers now available and will be presented by the committee co-chairman, Paul Cline.

TO STAGE BENEFIT BOUT FOR BAROUDIS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—Promoter Jack Begun began making plans today to stage a benefit boxing match to bring financial security for the parents and sister of Sam Baroudi.

Baroudi, whose real name is Crandall, died early Saturday afternoon knocked out in the tenth and last round of his Chicago stadium fight with Ezzard Charles.

Begun, co-promoter of the bout, said he and his firm would match Charles against "the best possible opponent" and donate "every penny of our profits" to the family of the dead 26-year-old Negro boxer.

Charles, leading challenger for Gus Lesnevich's 175-pound championship, and his manager, Jake Mintz, were out of the city today. They will return Friday when the inquest into the ring death will be continued.

Meanwhile, a jury has been instructed by Coroner A. L. Brodie to investigate fully the fatality and suggest improvements of boxing in Illinois. A separate inquiry also was started by Assistant State's Attorney Dan Ryan.

The body of Baroudi was taken to Akron, O., his home, yesterday by his father, 55-year-old Sam Crandall, Akron rubber company worker.

Begun said his firm had advanced the boxer's father $500 for funeral expenses and was "going to return $1,600 withheld from Baroudi's $5,600 purse to cover expenses incurred in the city while preparing for the fight."

HARDING TO GET BID TO JOIN GRID LOOP

Marion Harding will have an opportunity to join the Ohio scholastic conference, to be composed of northern and southern divisions of seven high school football powerhouses each. The northern division, composed of Massillon, Mansfield, Warren Canton McKinley, Steubenville, Alliance and Toledo Waite has already been organized.

The southern sector, however, has two or three openings which the conference hopes to fill with the following teams who will receive invitations. They are: Marion, Lancaster, Toledo Libbey, Newark, Zanesville, Ironton, Martins Ferry, East Liverpool, Lima, Chillicothe, Bellaire, Marietta and Barberton. Despite its rating as the top grid team in the state last year, Barberton refused a chance to play in the northern loop.

A post-season game the Saturday after Thanksgiving between the two division winners, probably in the Ohio State Stadium, to be called the "Buckeye Bowl" will be played to establish the champion.

Springfield, Middletown, Hamilton, Portsmouth and Chillicothe and Lima Central were represented at a meeting Saturday of the Southern mentors with only Lima and Chillicothe showing doubt about joining the circuit.

It is unlikely that Marion will accept the invitation at the present time since football is just getting a start after the wartime slump and the teams in the southern half are so far away that it would incur too much traveling to play them.

Ned Garver, Ex-Newark Pitcher, Joins Browns

Ned Garver of Ney, O., who started in baseball with Newark of the Ohio State league in 1944 is listed, in the American league "Who's Who" among rookies in the Red Book released by the league publicity bureau. Garver is scheduled to come up to the St. Louis Browns this year.

Last season he won 17 games for the San Antonio Missions of the Texas league.

Garver is a right hander noted for his control of a fine curve ball.

He was the only 20-game winner in the Buckeye loop the first year the present loop was organized.

Also on the Newark team of 1944 was Owen Friend, a second baseman who is expected to cover the keystone sack for Toledo in the American Association this year.

Another former hurler for Newark, Robert Hogue, is on the roster of the Boston Braves this year.

College Cagers Hit Stretch With Wooster, OWU Ahead

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O., Feb. 23—Fifteen Ohio colleges drop the curtain this week on the 1947-48 basketball campaign, but there's better than a good chance the standings could be turned topsy-turvy in the stretch.

The week's program, last big splurge before uniforms go into mothballs—or vice versa—calls for 47 games, including 17 in the hectic Ohio conference race and 17 against foes from outside the Buckeye borders.

So far as the Ohio conference championship is concerned, everything hinges on Ohio Wesleyan's invasion of Mount Union Saturday night. If the Battling Bishops from Delaware take that one, nothing else matters. A win would clinch the crown for Wesleyan, newest member of the unwieldy loop, with a 10-1 record.

But let Mount Union upset the Bishops—a distinct possibility—and you're liable to see the most star-spangled finish in conference history. Wooster, on Wesleyan's heels with 11 wins and two setbacks—and three league games to play—could then take over and win by itself.

But should Wesleyan lose, and Wooster drop one of the three—the Scots meet Oberlin and Otterbein at home, and Kenyon away—then Capital could romp into the running for the laurels it won a year ago. Capital must get by Kenyon and Wilmington this week to stay up there, but should do it to finish with a conference record of 13 wins and three losses.

While most of the other clubs are tapering off, Kenyon's Lords speed up in the final drive. They still have five Ohio conference clashes on the books—with Capital, Otterbein, Denison, Wooster and Ashland.

Wooster's perch atop the state-wide standings with a 15-2 record is just as shaky as Wesleyan's in the conference. If the Scots falter just once, Xavier, Bowling Green and Toledo are bunched in the next slot ready to take over.

Here's how the clubs stack up going into the final drive:

The counselor of the Canadian ... in Washington, Mr. ... Wrong, said on Dec. 22 that ... could inform us that any action ... by the Free French forces had been called off.

MEANTIME, HOWEVER, Muse... had communicated with de Gaulle, who ordered him to go ahead just the same.

Without previous warning to Canada or the United States, Admiral Muselier therefore landed a small force on the islands on Christmas Eve and took charge. Our consul at St. Pierre, Maurice Pasquet, reported to us on Dec. 26 that Muselier was much aroused against de Gaulle, whom he accused of having acted as a dictator. Muselier said he intended to resign in protest against the unilateral order given him by de Gaulle without the prior approval of the United States and Canada. Sometime later Muselier did break with de Gaulle.

On that Christmas Day I issued a statement, with the approval of the President, characterizing the incident by three "so-called Free French ships" as "an arbitrary action contrary to the agreement of all parties concerned and certainly without the prior knowledge or consent in any sense of the United States government."

Unfortunately, many influential people, both in the United States and abroad did not comprehend the broader issues, and unleashed a violent attack on the state department and on me for having issued the statement I did on the seizure of the islands. Few actions that seemed so minor have ever aroused opposition that became so bitter.

A special offensive was launched against us because of the word "so-called" in the phrase "so-called Free French ships" in the statement. Our attackers thought that with this word we were questioning the existence of the Free French or the fact that they were free, whereas by the phrase we simply meant: Three ships supposedly of the Free French.

I had a blunt conversation with Prime Minister Churchill at the White House on the whole question of our relations with Vichy France, with the seizure of the islands as a springboard. The President, who thoroughly agreed with my position, was present at this discussion, but he remained on the sidelines while Mr. Churchill and I indulged in some plain speaking.

I POINTEDLY ACCUSED de Gaulle of being a marplot acting directly contrary to the expressed wishes of Britain, Canada, and the United States, and I asked the prime minister to induce him to withdraw his troops from the St. Pierre-Miquelon islands, with Canadians and Americans assuming supervision over the radio station at St. Pierre.

Mr. Churchill said that if he insisted on such a request his relations with the Free French movement would be impaired.

I replied that the presence of the Free French on the islands, without our doing anything about it, jeopardized our relations with the Vichy government. I re-emphasized the importance of continuing those relations in that they enabled us to use our influence to keep the French fleet and bases from falling into German hands and to keep observers in Vichy France and in French North and West Africa.

Mr. Churchill agreed that these relations with Vichy were important to Britain as well as to the United States.

I directly asked the prime minister whether he could not do something to prevent de Gaulle's movement from continuing its radio and press attacks on the American government.

When the prime minister wondered whether he would be in position to exercise any such censorship over de Gaulle, I said that de Gaulle's propaganda campaign against us was being financed by British funds, and de Gaulle could be quickly stopped dead in his tracks if Mr. Churchill threatened to withdraw Britain's subsidies.

Mr. Churchill agreed to consider the various points I had raised.

Matters were at this point when the prime minister went to Ottawa

GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE
He was stubborn.

and there on Dec. 30 delivered a violent diatribe against Vichy, along with fulsome praise of de Gaulle.

THE DAY AFTER Mr. Churchill's speech, I sent the President a memorandum in which I said: "Our British friends seem to believe that the bogy of the entire people of France is strongly behind de Gaulle, whereas according to all my information and that of my associates, some 95% of the entire French people are anti-Hitler, where more than 95% of this latter number are not de Gaullists and would not follow him. This fact leads straight to our plans about North Africa and our omission of de Gaulle's cooperation in that connection."

Regarding this last point, the President had early determined that de Gaulle would not be included in any plans for an Anglo-American expedition to French North Africa, and he emphasized this determination to Mr. Churchill. He felt that inclusion of de Gaulle might prejudice the secrecy of the plans and would automatically produce resistance from the French in North Africa.

Mr. Churchill returned to Washington almost immediately after his Ottawa speech. I saw him at the White House on Jan. 2 and did not hesitate to say that his remarks about Vichy and de Gaulle were "highly incendiary" and had brought far-reaching injury to me and to the state department.

I pleaded with him that, since our relations with Vichy were of great value to Britain as well as to the United States, as he himself had repeatedly acknowledged to us, it would be of wonderful assistance to us if he could say "just a few little words" to the effect that, although Britain had not desired to maintain relations with Vichy, those maintained by the United States were worthwhile in the common cause. Otherwise, I said, the existing general impression that the United States was "appeasing" Vichy, in direct violation of British wishes, would continue and spread.

The prime minister was not cordial to the suggestion.

I THEN ASKED the President to bring his own personal influence with Churchill to bear to produce a straightening out of this anomalous situation. Mr. Roosevelt, however, said he had done what he could and he could not do anything further. These attitudes of the President and the prime minister were in striking contrast to their later attitudes when they both became bitterly hostile to de Gaulle and remained so.

I now drafted a proposed agreement that I believed acceptable to the United States, Britain and Canada and that would make withdrawal of the Free French forces from the islands agreeable to de Gaulle. This provided that the United States, Britain and Canada would exercise joint supervision over the islands, which would be neutralized and demilitarized.

The President agreed to my proposed solution. We thereupon submitted it to Mr. Churchill. He accepted it on condition that de Gaulle agreed. Meantime the Petain government agreed to it. But de Gaulle rejected it.

De Gaulle never did consent to our proposed agreement which would have ironed out the dispute.

Finally, as the turmoil over the incident declined, I felt that the wisest course would be to let the matter rest until the end of the war. The President agreed with my recommendation, and the matter accordingly declined to one of those footnotes of history that had dangerous possibilities of becoming whole chapters.

OUR RELATIONS with de Gaulle's movement were not helped by the incident. There was no doubt in the minds of the President or myself that de Gaulle personally was responsible for violating his commitment to Britain and for going directly contrary to the wishes of the United States and Canada. We regarded him as more ambitious for himself and less reliable than we had thought him before.

As for myself, the refusal of the President to bring more pressure on Mr. Churchill to clarify him and the United States with and and the United States with regard to de Gaulle and Vichy was one of several factors that almost caused me to resign as secretary of state in January, 1942. I so seriously considered resigning that I pencilled out a note to the President tendering my resignation.

A few comments may be in order in summing up the effects of our Vichy policy. It is unfortunate that that policy aroused so many emotions in the United States that even today some persons refuse to see anything in it but the most mournful black. Some of these persons are like those who throughout history have been drawn to the dramatic figure on horseback, who follow him blindly, who will see no fault in him, and who regard as bitter enemies all who refuse to admit his supremacy. Curiously, many Britons and Americans, looking upon de Gaulle as a newborn Joan of Arc, embraced him with more intensity than the average among his own French followers.

THE FIRST POINT is that President Roosevelt and I saw as one toward Vichy and toward de Gaulle.

The second point is that Prime Minister Churchill, and sometimes Eden, strongly supported to the President and me our maintenance of relations with Vichy, even though they themselves condemned Vichy and made those relations difficult.

The third point is that our relations with Vichy brought us proven advantages. They meant contacts in Vichy France and in French North Africa which would have been cut off completely had we broken with Vichy. They meant information. They meant having our own representatives on the spot to convince Frenchmen that the Allies would win, however long it took, and that Vichy France should not collaborate with Germany. They helped keep alive in the minds of the French people their basic concepts of freedom and the hope that France's free institutions would be restored. They were instrumental in preventing the cession of bases and materials to Germany in May, 1941. These relations played a part in keeping the French fleet from passing into German hands.

THE FOURTH POINT is that we had no pre-eminent French leader to turn to if we were to cut off Vichy entirely and perhaps push Petain's government into Hitler's arms. To give de Gaulle full diplomatic recognition meant withdrawing diplomatic recognition from Vichy. The disadvantages to us obviously outweighed the advantages. Nevertheless, we did go as far as we could in giving him military assistance and in trying to build him up as what he should have been, a military leader and a general of the French armies who was willing to leave political considerations to a later date and to take the field and fight the Germans.

The fifth, and most important, point, was that our relations with Vichy, which permitted us to maintain consuls in North Africa, paved the way and prepared the background for planning and sending the Anglo-American military expedition into the western Mediterranean area and for assisting the movements supporting the British operations farther East.

Bullitt Answers References To Him in Hull's Memoirs

The following written by William C. Bullitt, who was United States ambassador to France at the time of the German invasion, is in reply to statements made by Cordell Hull in his memoirs which this paper has been publishing. Mr. Bullitt was long associated with the state department. He was assistant in the department of state 1917-1918, was a member of the special mission to Russia in 1919 and was special assistant to the secretary of state in 1933. He was also United States ambassador to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics from 1933 to 1936.

By WILLIAM C. BULLITT
(Former Ambassador from U. S. to France)

May I add two footnotes to the chapter of Cordell Hull's Memoirs published by us on Saturday, Feb. 14?

▶Mr. Hull's statement "Bullitt had communicated directly with the President on many occasions by telephone and cable. He also employed a private code he had worked out solely with the President."

This is true. President Roosevelt frequently telephone to me at the embassy in Paris, and I frequently telephoned to him. Moreover we used personal codes inside government codes. And in matters of utmost secrecy we employed Navy codes. But I should regret to have the impression prevail that this was due to a desire to conceal anything from the secretary of state, Mr. Hull, for whom I have always had high respect. It was due to lack of security in the department of state.

The codes of the department were so antiquated that, in the opinion of the President, they had been broken by all the totalitarian powers. Furthermore, leakages from the department included publication of strictly confidential telegrams almost without alteration of a word. This matter was brought to the attention of the secretary of state; but he was unable to stop the leakages. It was not in disrespect to Mr. Hull, who is one of the most discreet of men but in the interest of security that communications between President and myself frequently passed by other channels than those of the department of state.

In my opinion, it is, therefore, not fair to President Roosevelt to write: "Liking the dramatic side of foreign affairs, Mr. Roosevelt did not discourage this practice." From his experience as assistant secretary of the Navy, President Roosevelt had learned to pay close attention to security of communications.

▶2 I should also regret to have the impression prevail that any disrespect to Mr. Hull was involved in my remaining in Paris in June, 1940.

More than two years before, I had said to President Roosevelt that I felt sure Hitler would attack France during the period of my service as ambassador in Paris, and that the Nazis might capture the French capital. I reminded the President that the best tradition of our diplomatic service was that, although other ambassadors left Paris, the American ambassador did not run away in time of danger. Gouverneur Morris alone had remained in Paris throughout the Revolution and the Terror and had saved thousands of lives; Elihu Washburne alone had remained throughout the siege of Paris and the Commune and had saved hundreds of lives; Myron Herrick had remained after the government fled in 1914. In consequence, the American embassy in Paris had a standing with the French far superior to that of any other power. We were regarded as friends in disaster as well as in happy hours.

President Approves Suggestion

I told the President that, if the occasion should arise, I would consider it in our national interest for me to follow the same course. He agreed. I then asked him, if the event should confirm my forebodings, to make sure that I would not receive a panicky, last-minute order to leave Paris. He agreed to do so. So far as my mind was concerned, this conversation settled the course I should pursue.

In consequence, when the British ambassador, on May 18, 1940, asked me to take charge of the interest of Great Britain in Paris, and I telegraphed Secretary Hull asking for his approval of the request, I informed him that I was sending all wives and children of members of the embassy to Bordeaux and concluded: "I shall, of course, remain in Paris."

Secretary Hull approved by telegram.

On May 23, 1940, I telegraphed Secretary Hull that the French government was making preparations to move to Bordeau, and suggested that Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, who was American ambassador to the Polish government-in-exile, resident in France, should be appointed special representative pro tem of the President to the French government, and should accompany the French government where it might go, while I remained in Paris.

Approval By Wire

On May 27, 1940, I received in reply, a telegram signed by Secretary Hull saying:

"The President is happy to approve your suggestion that if the French government should leave Paris, it might be advisable to have, at its temporary residence, a high-ranking official, and that Ambassador Biddle should take over this duty. We believe, however, that he should act as your deputy or assistant in accordance with the 1914 precedent when Garret was sent to Bordeaux, and not as special representative of the President. The department will approve assumption by Biddle of these duties in addition to his normal duties as ambassador to the Polish government. Such secretaries as you might send from Paris would work under Biddle. You may communicate this informally to the French government. When the contingency we foresee arises definite orders will be sent to Biddle. Hull."

WILLIAM C. BULLITT

In accordance with this telegram I informed the French government that I definitely would remain in Paris. This information was received with profound gratitude. The French government asked me to take various steps to protect French lives and property, which I agreed to do. Nearly all the ambassadors and ministers in Paris of the countries at war with Hitler asked me to take over protection of their nationals and their properties, which I agreed to do, and hundreds of their nationals flocked to the embassy daily for advice and assistance.

I received no intimation of any kind that either President Roosevelt or Secretary Hull might desire to upset the arrangements set forth in the secretary's telegram of May 27, to me.

Phone Call from President

Sunday night, June 9, after most of the government had left Paris and the city was in panic, produced in part by the approach of the German army, in part by the Communists, whose clandestine radio was calling for revolt and the murder of the "bourgeoisie" and of all those who wished to continue the war against the Nazis, including myself, President Roosevelt called me on the telephone.

"Bill" he said, "You'll be killed if you stay in Paris, and I don't want you killed. I want you back here. If the Communists don't get you before the Nazis come in, the Nazis will kill you. They hate you worse than anyone."

I replied that the prospect did not disturb me. The President said that the Nazis would at least prevent my leaving Paris and perhaps imprison me. I answered that he could end my misgivings instantly by announcing the new world war.

In this remark I referred to the fact that he had asked me to become secretary of the navy as soon as Secretary Edison would go to run for governor of New Jersey, about June 24, 1940, and that I had accepted. The President continued to talk about my safety, referring to the Communist radio and anonymous threats of murder I had received. I then suggested to him that he should have thought of all that, as I had before having me commit myself to accept the protection of French and Allied interests in Paris, in accordance with Secretary Hull's telegram of May 27. The President had no argument to make, answer to that remark. He did not say or intimate that he thought any advantage could be gained for the United States by my leaving Paris. His concern seemed to be solely for my safety. And, after saying he would pray God to take care of me, he hung up.

President And Hull Pleased

So little was the President displeased with the idea of my remaining in Paris, that after our telephone conversation, he sent me a telegram countersigned by Secretary Hull, which concluded with the words:

"On behalf of the Government of the United States, I salute you in this hour of stress and personally you have my ever affectionate regard."

In view of this record, which is in the files of the department of state, and especially in view of Secretary Hull's telegram to me of May 27, 1940, in which he amended my suggestion and ordered the appointment of Ambassador Biddle as my deputy to accompany the French government while I remained in Paris, I think it is not altogether reasonable or accurate to write:

"As the Germans approached Paris, Bullitt communicated to the President direct that he knew the state department would oppose the proposal he was about to make, hence he was approaching him personally. He then proposed staying in Paris, instead of going with the French government."

In conclusion, Mr. Hull pays me a high compliment by indicating that he thinks I might have prevented the French surrender which Ambassador Biddle was unable to prevent. Ambassador Biddle was as Mr. Hull writes: "A fine diplomat." After being driven from Poland by the Nazis, he had spent more than two months in my house in Paris, and had established most cordial relations with all members of the French government.

Furthermore, President Roosevelt had asked me to inform Ambassador Biddle that, when he should have appointed me secretary of the Navy about June 24, 1940, he would at once appoint Biddle ambassador to Paris. Since bein Biddle and myself expected that he would replace me as ambassador to France before the end of June, the appointment of my deputy seemed merely an acceleration by two weeks of the accomplishment of my duties. And I am not sufficiently conceited to believe that I could have succeeded where Ambassador Biddle failed.

In any event, my purpose in this communication is merely to make clear that the appointment of Ambassador Biddle to accompany the French government while I remained in Paris was based not on any request for Secretary Hull but on the department of state's telegram to me of May 27, 1940, signed Hull.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Value of Nursing the Baby

Breast feeding is the best insurance a mother can give her baby.

Breast milk provides as no other food can the exact elements a baby needs for growth and health. Not only is it the food on which the baby thrives best, but the very act of nursing her baby the mother learns to understand her baby and to give it the necessary emotional satisfaction which will mean so much to both, through all the years to come.

In view of all this, it is a great pity that so many modern mothers ever consider ignoring Nature's law and insist that their babies be bottle fed. Studies of hospital figures show that in many cities only one out of every twenty mothers breast-feeds her baby, this despite the fact that nearly nine out of every ten mothers could do so.

Though the chief reason for this sad state of affairs is the unwillingness of today's women to nurse their babies, I have no doubt it could be overcome if mothers understood that breast-feeding is far less of an inconvenience than most people suppose. For instance many women believe that breast-feeding will cause them to gain weight and, at the same time, render the breasts flabby.

Neither of these notions is true. Nursing does not enlarge the shape of the breasts and, if the mother who nurses her baby uses a well-balanced diet, any undesirable weight gains can be prevented.

Smoking is prevalent among women today and a good many mothers refuse to nurse their babies lest they should have to give up this habit. If they stopped to inquire, they would find general agreement among doctors that moderate smoking on the part of the mother will do no harm during the nursing period.

Another so-called objection to nursing is that it confines the mother too closely. That is another unjustified fear since it is perfectly possible for the mother who nurses her baby to use one bottle feeding a day thus giving herself time for business and social engagements. She must, however, make sure that the breasts are completely emptied to help keep up the milk supply.

The problems created by breast-feeding are little ones, easily taken care of by such suggestions as those I have made above. Those solved by it are of vast importance, both to the welfare of the baby and the mother herself. I am sure that if mothers really understood these things, they would be eager to follow the method devised by Nature, for the nourishment of their babies.

During recent times, some authorities seem to think that adherence to a rigid schedule is not advisable, that mothers should respond more to their infants' natural desires rather than to clocklike schedule.

At first the baby may not nurse vigorously but before long he will learn to nurse more strongly. If the baby falls asleep, usually a gentle pat will start his nursing again.

There are, of course, a few instances in which breast-feeding should be discontinued, at least for the time being. These include such conditions as acute sicknesses, cracking of the nipples which make breast-feeding extremely painful, infections of the breast, pregnancy, and sensitivity of the infant to the milk, an extremely rare occurrence.

Foods, other than milk, are added to the baby's diet by the third or fourth month and often by the fifth or sixth month it will breast-feeding is no longer required. Whether the baby is breast fed or not, vitamin C should be supplied in the form of orange juice or tomato juice, and vitamin D in the form of cod-liver oil or some similar substance. These two foods are usually started when the baby is about two weeks old.

Questions and Answers

M. E.: What causes a pain in the abdomen, a little and below the navel? The pain lasts for three days or more.

Answer: The pain you mention may be due to bowel inflammation, to some disorder of the tubes or ovaries, the bladder or the kidneys. A kidney disorder may also be responsible.

A careful study should be made by your physician to determine the cause of your difficulty.

progressive liberalism and its popularity among the various groups which make up the less favored part of the people.

Crisis President

Roosevelt came to power in 1932 because a strong, new administration was needed to bring the country out of a condition of prostration and collapse.

He was continued in power after 1940 because he had grasped and mastered the overriding issues of war and peace. Roosevelt was incidentally a New Dealer; he was above all a crisis president—first in domestic affairs and then in war.

It was his ability to grasp and master crises, not the reforms which were incidental and improvised, that gave him his unprecedentedly long hold upon the country.

Mr. Truman can not, I think, duplicate Roosevelt's performance by identifying himself with the incidental and improvised reforms—by presenting himself as a kind of synthetic and denatured New Dealer.

The real issue now, as in Roosevelt's epoch, is the ability to grasp and master crises.

Today it is the crisis of the unsettled peace and of the threatened war and of the obstructed recovery.

What the people will look for, must look for, is not who can promise the most of the largest collection of pressure groups, but who offers the best hope of a firm, coherent, lucid administration of the government in the fearful crisis through which this country and the world are passing.

was still the right man for the job."

Sherwood refused further comment.

Investigators for Sherwood reportedly turned up complaints that a small clique of guards and inmates controlled the 114-year-old institution, that narcotics were being smuggled to prisoners and the rackets flourished behind the walls.

Asked about a clique controlling the prison, Henderson replied:

"That is too silly for comment. It makes me laugh. I became warden Aug. 24, 1939, and up to and including yesterday afternoon, I was boss of this penitentiary."

He said if the other complaints were correct, he knew nothing about the matter.

"No charges have been made, and I don't know of any that were to be made or are to be made," Henderson continued. "You will have to ask Director Sherwood about that."

Says Grip Released

Sherwood went to the prison Saturday to demand the warden's resignation, or suspend him if he refused to quit. Henderson's grip on the institution, Sherwood reported, relaxed considerably the last six months as his health declined.

Henderson agreed to resign, effective April 1. Later at a news conference, he smiling answered all questions with: "No comment." His resignation was reported "no reflection on his integrity."

Henderson's firing marked the third time in 13 years that an Ohio penitentiary warden quit under fire.

Preston Thomas ruled with an iron hand for 22 years. He resigned in 1935 "because of poor health," after Gov. Martin L. Davey suspended him for 30 days. James C. Woodard, advanced from deputy warden, was ousted in 1939 after refusing to resign following disclosure of gambling, rackets and narcotics smuggling behind the walls.

Henderson, state adjutant general from 1923 to 1935, won frequent praise for his early administration. He was credited with bringing military discipline to the prison, decreasing idleness among inmates, removing fire hazards, and remodeling buildings.

CIRCLE AIDS SCHOOL

Mrs. Fred Cory was hostess for a meeting of Circle No. 12 of Epworth Methodist church in her home at 840 South Prospect street Thursday night. Mrs. Fred Moore conducted devotions. Group singing was accompanied by Mrs. Florence Acker. Guests included Mrs. J. W. Young, Mrs. Thomas Cathers, Mrs. Warren Bull and Mrs. Thomas Reed. An offering was taken for the Lakeside School of Missions. Mrs. Cathers talked on alcoholic education, and on the society's goals for 1948. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. E. J. Schneider.

BOWLING SCORES

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

DR. CASIMIR FUNK, born Feb. 23, 1884, often called the discoverer of vitamins, produced the first vitamin concentrates accepted by the American Medical Association. He also pioneered in development of adrenaline and hormones. Son of a Polish dermatologist, he has worked in Germany, London, Paris and the United States. He became a U. S. citizen in 1920.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The pretender to the Spanish throne is here. Michael is coming and de Valera may be on the next boat.

* * *

There is no steady work any more for presidents, princes or prime ministers, except Stalin.

* * *

Stalin prints his own ballots. That way no other name gets on them by mistake or design.

* * *

I don't know what happened to Brooklyn-born de Valera. Brooklyn and Ireland have always had pleasant relations. Thousands of them.

* * *

But New York is so filled with royalty at the moment that when you step on a coin in the subway you look to see if there's a crest on it.

* * *

I don't know who supports ex-kings but there may be no truth in the story that you can't take it with you.

* * *

They seem to have lugged it this far.
